Turkey takes over U.S. military bases

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey said its armed forces were taking control of American bases on its soil today in reprisal for the U.S. House of Representatives' decision to continue an arms embargo on the Ankara government.

Premier Suleiman Demirel and his cabinet decided Friday night to renounce defense agreements with the United States and ordered Americans to halt activities at all 20 military bases.

However, a special status was accorded the strategic air base at Incirlik, where a squadron of 12 U.S. Air Force F4 fighters was permitted to continue operating within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The squadron is the only U.S. combat unit in Turkey. The other bases are mostly radar stations and electronic listening posts along the Soviet border.

In Washington, the Pentagon was withholding orders to the 7,000 military personnel in Turkey while officials tried to determine how far the Turks intended to go in limiting American use of the bases.

Embassy sources said messages from President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger urging moderation had been delivered to the cabinet while it was in session. The decision was seen by diplomatic observers as restrained because it fell short of closure of the bases.

American officials said they were studying a Turkish note on the cabinet decision, and the full implications of the action were not immediately clear.

Interior Minister Ogizhan Asilturk was asked whether the action means eventual removal of American personnel from the bases. He replied that "the details are to be worked out by the Turkish general staff according to the needs of the situation."

He added, "We are effectively assuming control of all American bases."

An announcement broadcast over the state radio and television while the cabinet was in session said Turkish armed forces would be in "total control" of the American installations today.

It said the decision was taken in view of the fact that existing bilateral defense agreements between Turkey and the United States are no longer valid. The statement specifically referred to the refusal of the House of Representatives to resume arms sales to Turkey.

The Ford administration had sought a partial lifting of the ban, imposed after U.S.-supplied weapons were used in last year's Turkish invasion of Cyprus. The invasion of the disputed island prompted Greece to pull out of NATO's military activities.

OHIO RESIDENTS who have not been paying the Ohio income tax can expect to be contacted by the Ohio Tax Commission, says commissioner Gerald S. Collins.

Many persons have not been filing Ohio Income Tax returns because they qualify for tax credits equalling the amount of tax owed, he said, but others simply have been delinquent.

The state has begun contacting all persons who filed federal tax returns and listed an Ohio address, but failed to file an Ohio income tax statement.

A letter of explanation will accompany a request for information as to why a state tax form was not submitted. The auditing staff will then follow up against those who are delinquent.

Nixon grand jury testimony to remain secret, Ruth says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's 11 hours of grand jury testimony last month will remain secret, at least for the foreseeable future, says special Watergate prosecutor Henry S. Ruth.

Ruth said Friday there is no legal basis on which to seek public disclosure of the Nixon testimony that Ruth and two members of a now-defunct Watergate grand jury obtained June 23-24 in San Clemente, Calif.

"I don't know of any law which allows release of grand jury testimony," Ruth told newsmen after testifying before a closed meeting of a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Ruth also confirmed "without elaboration that his office is still investigating who was responsible for the 18½-minute gap on the White House tapes and various dealings of Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Ruth said he will meet Monday with Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi to discuss the future of the special prosecutor's office, which is scheduled to close shop in September, and to talk about what should go into the unit's final report.

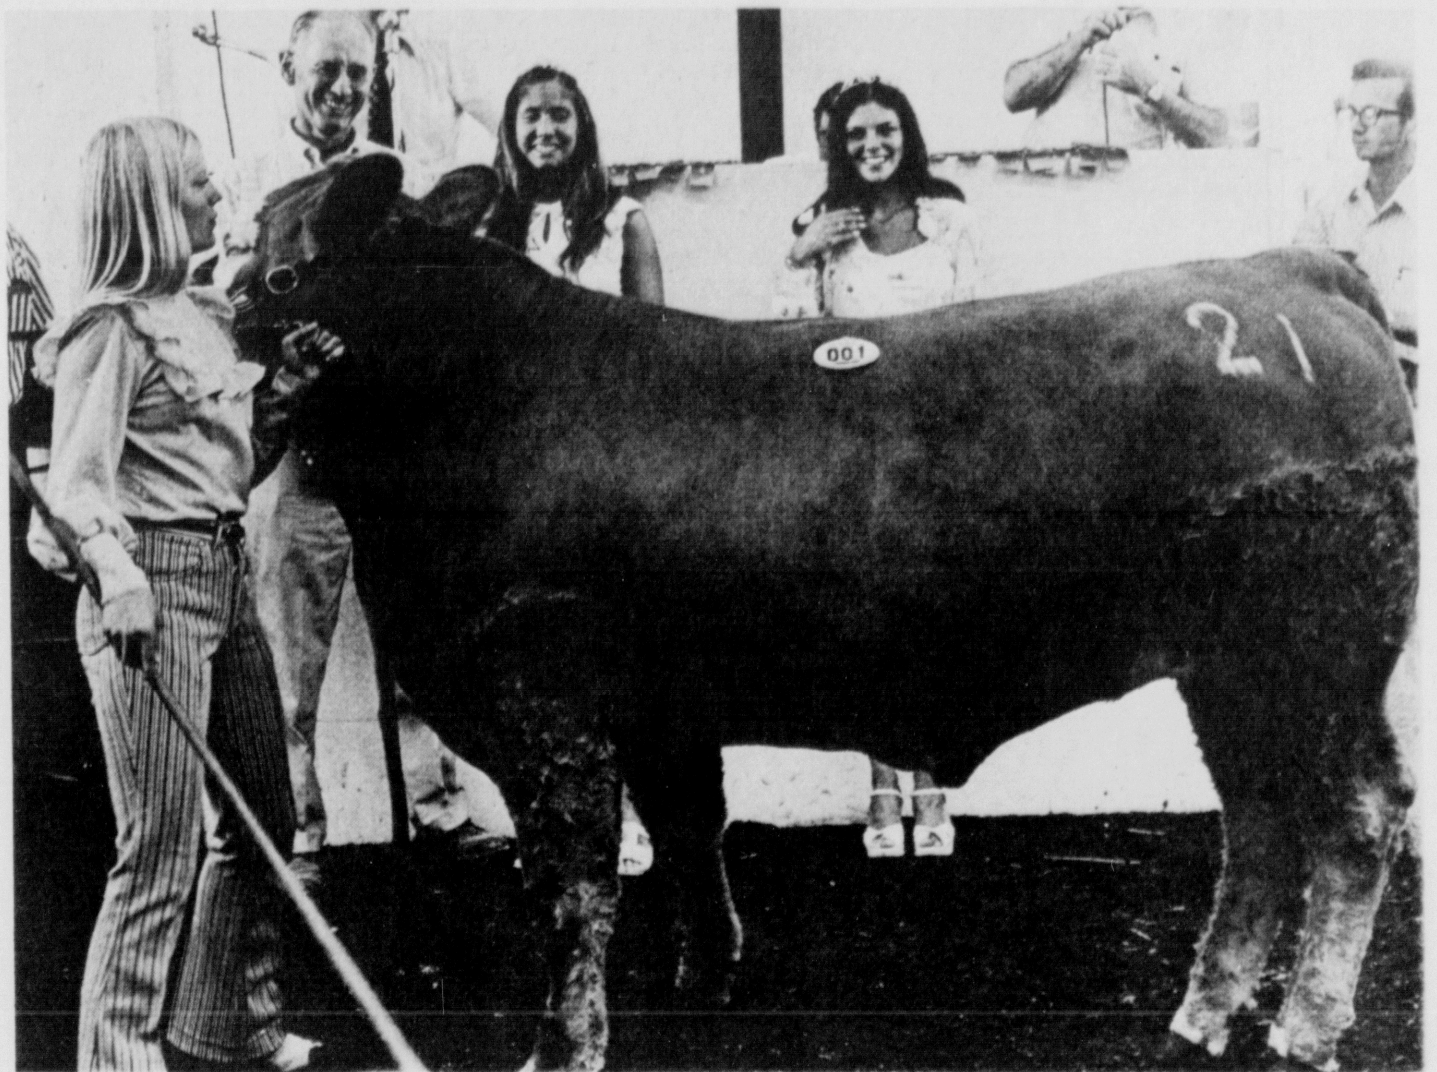

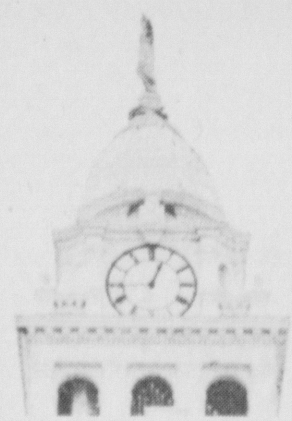

The plan now is to keep the report relatively narrow in scope, covering only the office's policies and summarizing its actions and not including any raw data such as the Nixon testimony, Ruth said.

He said there are between 200,000 and 250,000 pages of Watergate facts "already available."

"The United States' policy supports — as I have supported throughout my public life — the aspirations for freedom and national independence of the peoples of Eastern Europe by every proper and peaceful means."

"The results of this European Security Conference will be a step in that direction."

"The United States is acting in concert with our West European partners to preserve our interests in Berlin and Germany. And we are obtaining the public commitment of the Warsaw Pact Governments to the possibility of peaceful adjustments of frontiers. This is a significant concession — contrary to the claim that present borders are being permanently frozen."

FOR MENTAL RETARDATION — Ora C. Burdge of New Holland paid a record $2.10 per pound for Beth Jenks' grand champion steer at the Junior Fair steer sale Friday night. Burdge then donated the steer to the Fayette County Progressive School for the Mentally Handicapped and it was resold this time to the First National Bank of New

More livestock marks broken

More Fayette County Junior Fair livestock sale records were broken Friday night when Beth Jenks' grand champion steer sold for $210 cwt. to Ora C. Burdge to kickoff the 1975 steer sale, the last livestock auction at the Fayette County Fair for this year.

Burdge, who paid $10 cwt. over the record price he, himself, paid last year, donated the steer to the Fayette Progressive School for the Mentally Handicapped. The steer was then resold, this time to the First National Bank of New Holland for $135 cwt. with all the proceeds going to the mentally retarded.

Steve Mace's reserve champion

steer, of the European crossbreed, sold for $141 cwt. to McDonald's Restaurants, Inc. The price is an increase of $1 cwt. over the record, established last year by McDonalds.

Miss Jenks' grand champion weighed in at 1,225 pounds and sold for $2672.50 to Burdge and $1643.75 to the First National Bank at New Holland. Mace's reserve champion brought a total of $1684.95. It's weight was 1195 pounds.

Burdge also purchased the grand champion carcass from Rusty Coe for $235 cwt. The carcass, which placed third in the on-foot evaluation, weighed 797 pounds.

The average price paid for the 66

steers was $67.27 cwt. compared with last year's $75.02 cwt. average.

Merlin Woodruff of Urbana served as the auctioneer for the steer sale, as well as the Junior Fair market barrow and lamb sales.

Pennington Bakery bought the champion angus for $71 cwt. The animal was exhibited by Susan Wilson. Kim Bryant received $71 cwt. from Coil Packing Co. for her champion English cross. The New Holland Bank paid an identical $71 cwt. for Lisa Anderson's champion calf from the Hereford breed.

The entire list of buyers and sellers from the steer sale appears on page 2 of today's Record-Herald.

Fair attendance record looms

By MARK REA

Another record-breaking steer sale and a thrilling auto demolition derby highlighted the Fayette County Fair Friday as the fair rounded into its last day of events for 1975 with anticipations of surpassing the record fair attendance last year.

Friday's fair crowd exceeded all five other days of this year's event. George Finley, fair secretary, reported the paid attendance after 4 p.m. totalled a record 4,998 bringing the fair's total attendance figure to 20,363, as compared to last year's record-setting pace of over 21,000.

Finley predicted that with today's attendance faring as well or better than Friday's, the total fair admissions will boost beyond last year's exceptional record.

He noted the new 150-car parking area at the fairgrounds was a large factor for the increasing attendance. The Good Hope Lions Club members parked 1,147 cars in the fairgrounds parking areas Friday evening, Finley said.

During Friday's Junior Fair steer sale, Beth Jenks' grand champion steer, a European crossbreed weighing 1,225 pounds, was sold to Ora C. Burdge of New Holland for a record $210 cwt.

The champion beef carcass brought $235 cwt., off the record $375 cwt. Burdge also purchased the champion carcass, cut from a steer raised by Rusty Coe.

The reserve champion brought a record $141 cwt. when McDonalds Restaurant of Washington C.H. purchased Steve Mace's European crossbred steer.

In all, 66 steers were sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff at an average of $67.27 cwt., slightly under last year's $74.02 cwt. mark.

The Junior Fair open class beef and sheep were judged Friday to conclude the livestock judging. The awards round-up was set at 1:30 p.m. today in the sales arena to close the Junior Fair activities for another year.

Donald Mongold of Washington C.H. drove his battered car longer than anyone else in the first of a two-night demolition derby slate Friday night to earn $250 and a large trophy donated by Roney's Auto Parts, Washington C.H.

A packed grandstand crowd watched the demolition derby's three elimination heats and final run. The first heat was won by Dan Armbrust of Washington C.H., the second by Mike Walters of New Holland and the third run by Junior Ison of Milledgeville.

A LONG WEEK — It's been a long week of selling for this young man. A short rest was certainly in order Friday afternoon, but finding some shade along the sun-baked midway was not easy. The balloons themselves offered a solution of sorts.

Heat winners each received $50 for their efforts.

Another demolition derby, which will feature 45 different drivers, is scheduled to being at 7:30 p.m. tonight in front of the grandstand, immediately following a skydiving feat by Paul McCowan, captain of the Kings Island skydiving team.

Rain has not been a factor at the 1975 Fayette County Fair and excluding a brief dispersal of raindrops Thursday, precipitation has been without appearance on the fairgrounds. Last year, while only a handful of people could recall the last fair without rain, it is difficult this year to meet anyone who can remember two consecutive rainless years for the fair.

The weatherman has predicted temperatures will reach into the 80s this afternoon, providing a warm, clear day to conclude the 1975 Fayette County Fair.

Veteran harness horseman Forrest Short

Scioto Downs feature claims veteran driver

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Forrest Short, 81-year-old veteran harness driver from Circleville, died Friday night as a result of an accident at Scioto Downs that involved three horses, including J.W. Song, Short's pacer in the featured ninth race.

A preliminary investigation by the official judges disclosed that as the field passed the half-mile pole and headed down the backstretch, Heather M. driven by Phil Siebold broke stride. Short and J.W. Song failed to clear, and Summer Promise driven by Ron Stokely rammed into J.W. Song, knocking both horses and drivers to the track, a track spokesman said.

J.W. Song fell on Short and Summer Promise knocked Stokely out of the sulky onto the track.

Short was rushed to Mercy Hospital by the Hamilton Township Fire Department emergency squad. He was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Short was born in Ross County on June 24, 1894. He came into the sport of harness racing late in life, beginning after he had retired as Pickaway County auditor in 1955. He had served in the capacity for 12 years.

Short won the first race staged at Scioto Downs on opening night on Oct. 9, 1959 with the pacer Raider Volo.

In 1960, Short was the leading driver at Scioto Downs with 22 victories, 13 seconds and 12 thirds in 88 starts.

Short and his brother Harry owned, trained and drove some of the most outstanding harness horses in Ohio.

Among Short's top horses was the four-year-old Jerry Way Stallion, Jerry MacPherson. Short won 11 of 25 starts with Jerry MacPherson in 1974. He won in 2:02 2-5 at the downs and set the track pacing record at the Pickaway County fairgrounds at Circleville in 2:04 last year.

Short developed the premier Ohio pacing sire Jerry Way and drove him in the 1960 Little Brown Jug at Delaware.

President defends European journey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today defended his decision to go to Europe to join with leaders of 34 other nations in signing a statement of principles. The President termed the Helsinki agreements "a statement of good intent."

In remarks prepared for his departure from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Ford said, "The United States has never recognized the Soviet incorporation of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia and is not going to do so in Helsinki."

Some ethnic groups and some political figures have contended that the nonbinding statement of principles to be signed in the Finnish capital tacitly acknowledges Soviet hegemony over Eastern Europe.

But Ford said, "Our official policy of nonrecognition is not affected by this conference. We are not committing ourselves to anything beyond what we are already committed to by our own moral and legal standards."

The first stop on the 13,200-mile trip for the President, his wife, Betty, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will be the West German capital of Bonn, with visits scheduled later in the 10-day journey to Poland, Finland, Romania and Yugoslavia.

Ford said the Helsinki conference "represents significant progress in our continuing efforts to achieve a more stable and productive East-West relationship. The Helsinki Agreements are a statement of good intent. They represent a moral rather than a legal commitment."

Opinion And Comment

Voting rights bill advances

After a long period of anxiety there is good reason now to believe that the Senate will approve renewal and expansion of the Voting Rights Act originally passed a decade ago. The way seems to have been cleared by the agreement of Mississippi's Sen. James O. Eastland, the ailing chairman of the Judiciary Committee, to allow hearings on the measure to proceed with Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan acting as chairman.

This signals the decline of effective Southern opposition to the bill, which is expected to win overwhelming Senate approval. Though Sen. James B. Allen of Alabama has indicated adamant opposition and will offer amendments to cure what he describes as the bills' "hyprocrisy" and discrimination against the South, such amendments are unlikely to win support. And should Allen try a filibuster, a vote to cut off debate by imposing cloture seems almost certain.

What it all comes down to is that the Senate is at last in a position to implement the popular will by extending this significant piece of civil rights legislation. That will be the final step: the House has already approved it.

The Voting Rights Act has played a momentous part in drawing minority voters into the electoral process which is the key element in representative government. The bill promises to augment this affect by broadening the act to include Mexican-Americans and other minorities as well as blacks. The sooner this is done, the better it will be for the health of our democracy.

Stellar influences excellent for constructive action. If judicious plans have already been made, carry them out smartly; make some, if you note a stalemate to progress.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

In everyday matters, give a little! You will be surprised at the results. Your lively imagination can give a time-worn or thinly devised project the boost it requires.

PISCES

Your intuition and perception should be keen now. Under prevailing influences, you should win advancement, increase prestige.

YOU BORN TODAY are like most Leoites, natural leaders, sometimes militant in your methods, and always dramatic. You usually act smartly and with precision, but can antagonize associates through sarcasm and arrogance. Try to curb these traits and be more patient with those less gifted than yourself. Exceptionally versatile, you could excel in the theater, as a writer or as an artist in almost any medium; could also become a brilliant business executive or organizer but, here again, must master the attitude that you are a law unto yourself, brooking no interference from others. Adaptability is one of the traits for which you MUST strive.

Calabrese getting paid for disability

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, has been paid $9,800 in workmen's compensation benefits since 1964 after being classified by the state as 90 per cent disabled, records show.

"I have no comment whatsoever," said Calabrese, a vigorous lawmaker at 68.

"What the hell kind of a comment can I make," he added. "The file speaks for itself."

The Ohio Industrial Commission file shows the senator received the money after breaking his right ankle and spraining his right knee in the Senate parking lot Dec. 17, 1964.

James L. Nolan, director of administration for the commission, said it is not unusual for a 90 per cent permanently and partly disabled person to be active and working. He described the situation as "akin to receiving (court) damages for an injury."

Calabrese was classified 20 per cent disabled in June 1967 and paid $1,960 for the period since the injury. On Feb. 23, 1972, he was declared 70 per cent disabled and awarded $4,900 in retroactive benefits. On Sept. 19, 1973, Calabrese was classified 90 per cent disabled and given an additional $2,490.

The state paid Calabrese's doctor bills in September 1970 in addition to the compensation awards.

Medical recommendations supporting Calabrese's claims were prepared by Columbus physician Beryl M. Oser.

Calabrese's 70 per cent disability claim was paid eight days after the supporting documents were received. The order was marked "pay forthwith."

The 90 per cent award was paid five days after medical reports arrived at the commission.

TV stars finding Las Vegas rough

LAS VEGAS (AP) — What do Tony Orlando & Dawn, Peter Marshall of "Hollywood Squares" and Kojak have in common?

They are among the television stars heading lately in Las Vegas' showrooms.

Some have found the Strip tougher than a Nielsen rating. Others have broke house records.

Why do they do it? For the money mostly, as well as the experience of trying Las Vegas performing.

"This is the big leagues," says Tony Zoppi, spokesman for the Riviera Hotel.

"Why does a ball player want to play for the Yankees? If he's got any ambition at all, a performer has to come to Las Vegas."

Many of Las Vegas' biggest acts are recording stars. They caught on first with the public through television.

The pop music group, Tony Orlando & Dawn, had a bagful of gold records when they tried Las Vegas a few years ago and fizzled.

They returned last month, a year after their highly rated television show premiered, and they nearly broke all attendance records at the Riviera.

Glen Campbell has been a big draw in Las Vegas ever since his music-comedy television hour a few years ago.

Tom Jones and Englebert Humperdink, two British recording stars, have been smash hits here ever since each had his own television show.

Peter Marshall, emcee of the Hollywood Squares game show, is bringing an act to the Desert Inn.

Like most of his television counterparts, he will sing, dance, keep up a line of light patter and generally frolic with a stageful of beautiful girls.

"What people don't realize is a guy like Peter Marshall is primarily a night club entertainer," said Zoppi. "He was a night club entertainer long before he got lucky in television."

Being a television star doesn't automatically mean one will be a Las Vegas hit. Not everyone will pay $15 or $20 just to see a star in the flesh.

Carroll O'Connor, the tube's acknowledged king as Archie Bunker of "All in the Family," brought a nightclub act to Las Vegas about two years ago. He couldn't fill the Riviera's showroom.

Telly Savalas, hard hitting police lieutenant in "Kojak," sang and soft-shoed around the Sahara Hotel stage earlier this month but played to only a partly filled showroom.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Con's wife waiting but considered fair game

DEAR ABBY: I am married, although my husband is in prison. I do not go out with other men, and I don't entertain any, either. I live a clean, simple, uncomplicated life and am only trying to hang in there until my man comes home.

My problem is that most men think that I am "fair game" because I have no husband home. There are several in my neighborhood who insist that I am "lonely," hungry for a man and desperately in need of the company of one. I am tired of trying to straighten these guys out.

Maybe if you print this, they will get the message. Just because a woman is alone doesn't mean that she is available.

WAITING FOR MY MAN

DEAR WAITING: Hooray for you! And I hope your man on the inside reads this. It will make his day. God bless.

DEAR ABBY: In fairness to the many older people like myself who cannot eat a large meal at one sitting and who eat many times a day (which the doctors assure us is healthier, anyway), I would like to present the side of the majority on "doggie baggers."

We enjoy restaurant eating every now and then, but my husband resents paying today's prices only to see half of my meal returned to the kitchen uneaten and then hearing me say "I'm hungry" two hours later. Since asking for a doggie bag is frowned upon in some restaurants, a simple solution for me is to carry my own plastic bags.

Yes, I do this in some friends' homes too. If you ask for a very small portion, the hostess thinks you ate before you came. And if you leave half of it on your plate, she thinks you didn't like it. But if you're truthful, the hostess is delighted to let you take your portion home to enjoy for several meals.

WOOF WOOF IN PA.
DEAR WOOF WOOF: I'm with you all the way. Many restaurants offer "a child's" portion at a reduced price, of which many senior citizens also take advantage.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40-years-old, and I have a problem. I always cry at sad movies, hymns, sad stories, parades, beautiful skaters and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Soon my son will be getting married. The plans for the church ceremony sound beautiful and end with my son's presenting me with a single red rose! The thought of it sends chills up my spine.

I don't want to embarrass my son or husband by blabbering.

Do you have any suggestions? (I'm on hormones, so it's not the menopause.) Thank you.

SENTIMENTAL IN ILLINOIS
DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Being told in advance will prepare you for the presentation. I'm sure there won't be a dryeye in the house, so if you shed a tear or two, and you won't embarrass anyone. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My dad and I are at a disagreement. He says I should not eat with my left hand. He says it is like eating peas with a knife.

I like eating with my left hand, and I THINK I am old enough to know which hand I feel more comfortable eating with. (I am 16.)

Dad says the etiquette books say that you are supposed to eat with your right hand.

Who is right? Please hurry your answer. I hate eating with my right hand.

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: I hope your dad is big enough to admit that he is wrong because he is.

European security meet nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are more than a trifle defensive when they discuss the declaration that President Ford and leaders of 34 other governments will sign next week in Helsinki.

After two decades of prodding, the Soviet Union will finally gain acceptance of the postwar map of eastern Europe. In return, the West mostly gets some high-sounding but tenuous "human rights" principles.

The document, which is not legally binding, allows for peaceful changes in borders. But this provides scant hope that Moscow's hold on eastern Europe will be relaxed and change will have to come from within the Warsaw bloc, the way Romania has achieved a measure of independence in its foreign policy.

As for the human rights concessions, such as reunification of divided families and freer movement of "ideas," journalists and security, they also are not legally enforceable and depend on Soviet good will. To the very end of two years of weary negotiations and drafting of the declaration, the Soviets fought for and obtained qualifications and conditions in every liberal provision.

The idea of an European collective security treaty was first proposed by Moscow in 1954. The West has tried to tie it to parallel negotiations to reduce Russian ground forces in Europe. These talks remain stalled in Vienna, but Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev will have his declaration and 35-nation summit to crow about at the 25th Communist party congress next February.

The Americans were never very excited about the conference. Privately, the highest officials were sometimes amused by the relentless debate among some 600 delegates over the placement of a comma, the translation of a phrase. Mostly, the United States went along with the tide.

In the U.S. view, the result is a political document that can serve as a "takeoff" for traditional treaties that would make the human-rights provisions binding. More important, it serves detente, the policy that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has pursued through the Nixon and Ford administrations. Another bond has been struck between East and West, giving promise of more understandings, such as a projected treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

On a practical level, President Ford will seize the opportunity of the summit setting to talk to Brezhnev about verification and other outstanding issues that are blocking completion of the weapons pact. Unless they are resolved, Brezhnev's planned visit to Washington this fall will be delayed — or held without a treaty signing.

Moreover, in the Helsinki declaration the Soviets make the gesture of agreeing to give 21-day advance notice of maneuvers involving 25,000 soldiers or more within 175 miles of their western borders. This applies also to Soviet troops in East Germany or elsewhere.

Whether the document would restrain the Soviets from applying the Brezhnev doctrine, the self-proclaimed right to intervene in a Warsaw bloc state, or from meddling in Portugal, is highly problematic.

North Viets ship U.S. arms to Hanoi, Far East guerillas

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has started shipping home some of the billions of dollars worth of U.S. weapons it captured from defeated South Vietnamese forces, Pentagon sources report.

The sources said 25 U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers were seen recently in Haiphong harbor aboard a landing ship tank originally supplied by the United States to the South Vietnamese navy.

The North Vietnamese captured about 1,000 howitzers when the South Vietnamese army collapsed last spring, according to Pentagon estimates.

Over-all, the Pentagon has calculated that the North Vietnamese got about $2 billion worth of serviceable American-made planes, tanks, artillery pieces, ammunition and other equipment when South Vietnam fell.

Another $3 billion or so in arms that came under North Vietnamese control was believed to be in unusable condition because of damage or lack of spare parts and maintenance.

In the case of the howitzers, U.S. intelligence specialists say the North Vietnamese should be able to obtain ammunition and spare parts from the Communist Chinese, who make artillery very similar to the U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources say the North Vietnamese are forming four new air force regiments in South Vietnam and equipping them with about 180 captured U.S. F5 jet fighters and A37 light bombers, as well as Russian-made MIG21s.

There has been one instance since the fall of South Vietnam in which it was reported that the North Vietnamese used A37 bombers in battles with the Communist Cambodians over several small disputed islands in the Gulf of Thailand.

Pentagon officials said last month they believe the A37s may have been flown by U.S.-trained pilots who served in the South Vietnamese air force until North Vietnam won.

Intelligence men have been watching for evidence that the North Vietnamese may be sending some of the huge stock of captured small arms to insurgents in other Southeast Asian countries.

So far, there has been one report that a quantity of U.S. M16 rifles were provided by the North Vietnamese to Moslem rebels fighting government troops in the Philippines.

On the other hand, intelligence continues to receive word of holdout resistance by South Vietnamese soldiers who apparently have some American arms and ammunition.

The most recent reports tell of remnants of the South Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division in Chau Doc province where they are said to be cooperating with members of a militant religious sect against the Communists. Previous reports have mentioned former South Vietnamese paratroopers and soldiers who once belonged to the 18th Infantry Division staging hit-and-run attacks.

Vets now able to exchange cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vietnam War veterans who have already drawn cash bonuses from Ohio can draw educational assistance funds instead if they refund any bonuses already paid.

Randall W. Sweeney, director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission, said the policy permitting the exchange was adopted because some veterans indicated they didn't know they had a choice.

He said the commission has received more than 1,450 requests for changes, most of them from cash to educational assistance.

The deadline for requesting a change is Oct. 21, Sweeney said.

Bank held up at Rio Grande

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP) — Two men wearing sun glasses held up the Rio Grande branch of the Ohio Valley Bank Friday, getting away with an undisclosed amount of cash.

The State Highway Patrol said they found a pickup truck believed used in the robbery abandoned along a Gallia County road a short time later. Boris Haskin, a vice president of the bank, said nobody was injured.

Farmers get bigger food dollar slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers took a slightly larger bite out of the consumer food dollar in June, largely because of higher livestock prices, according to figures by the Agriculture Department.

Using a 65-item list of market basket foods, officials said Thursday that farmers received an equivalent of 42.8 cents from each $1 that consumers spent last month, up from 41.8 cents in May and 40.1 cents in June 1974.

"Most of the increase resulted from a sharp jump in prices for beef cattle, hogs, broilers, and fresh vegetables," the department said in a report. "In contrast, decreases were sharp for eggs, farm ingredients in bakery and cereal products, oilseed products and sugar."

Retail beef prices rose to a record

average of nearly $1.58 a pound in June, measured on an all-cut basis, up 10 cents from May. The previous high was $1.50 a pound in February 1974.

Pork in retail stores rose to a near-record of almost $1.31 a pound, compared with $1.23 in May. The record was almost $1.32 a pound in August 1973.

Although the farm prices of cattle and hogs have declined some from their peaks in June, preliminary surveys by the department show that retail prices continued their upward momentum into early July, including an average of more than $1.63 a pound for beef and a record of almost $1.41 a pound for pork by July 5.

Middleman charges for transporting, processing and selling farm-produced food increased five-tenths of 1 per cent in June and averaged 3.1 per cent more than in the same month last year.

The report said that a one-pound loaf of white bread rose to 35.6 cents last month, down from 36.2 cents in May. The farm value of wheat in a loaf was 3.6 cents, down from 4.1 cents in May.

Eggs in retail stores dropped to 66.9 cents a dozen from 70.6 in May, with the farm value declining to 40.9 cents from 45.2 a month earlier.

Wheat used to expand beef feeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some beef producers apparently are planning to take advantage of the big wheat crop now being harvested in the southern Great Plains to expand their feeding operations, at least until more is known about 1975 corn production.

But Agriculture Department livestock experts said Monday that wheat feeding "probably is a minor factor" in the overall increase in feedlot operations in the past month. In a few areas, where 1975 wheat may be less costly than corn, it is having an effect.

In Kansas, for example, a USDA survey shows that 245,000 new cattle were placed in feedlots in May, up 78 per cent from the same month last year.

The main reason for the upturn in feed lot placements — up 20 per cent over-all in seven major beef states from a year earlier — has been the higher market prices for slaughter-grade cattle. Steers in Omaha, for example, were bringing close to $52 per 100 pounds in early June, compared with around $33 a few months ago.

Despite the price increase, feed lot placements have not resumed their high levels of early 1973 before the markets broke and cattle producers were plunged into almost two years of losses. The May feedlot placements, while up 20 per cent from a year earlier, were still about 20 per cent below May 1973.

Meanwhile, at least in some areas, new-crop wheat may have a price advantage over corn or sorghums for cattle feeders until the grain markets shake out and more is known about the 1975 corn crop, according to USDA economists.

The winter wheat crop being harvested could provide livestock feeders with some benefits if wheat prices are less in relation to corn.

Department experts say that if the total wheat harvest yields a record 2.1 billion bushels, it could trigger a surge in wheat feeding to livestock this summer while the corn crop is still waiting to mature. In all, USDA says, wheat fed to livestock during the year to begin July 1 could total 185 million to 200 million bushels, perhaps double the 1974-75 level.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has scheduled a hearing for June 26 to consider new definitions affecting milk sold in 37 federal milk-marketing order areas for use in flavored beverages.

Officials said Monday that the hearing was requested by the National Milk Producers Federation and involves a current rule allowing milk used in flavored beverages to be graded as Class II if the product contains more than 20 per cent total solids, including sweeteners and fat.

Under present rules, if a product has less than 20 per cent total solids, milk used in it is in the Class I category, meaning that handlers and processors must pay higher prices to farmers than they do for Class II milk.

A federation official said that some processors have edged over the 20 per cent line by using heavier corn syrup as a sweetener and thus have qualified their products for the Class II milk category.

Thus, the federation wants to eliminate the 20 per cent guideline and instead define milk used in such beverages on how those are consumed. Milk in preparations sold for direct consumption without further processing would be Class I and those which require further processing — in ice cream, for example — would be Class II.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sheep afflicted or exposed to a disease of the central nervous system called "scrapie" would be destroyed rather than allowed to be slaughtered for meat under a rule proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Officials said the proposal, open for public comment until July 21, is a "precautionary measure" resulting from recent research which showed that scrapie can be transmitted by laboratory inoculation to monkeys previously believed resistant to the disease.

Broomcorn statistics swept out the door

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 60 years of keeping broomcorn statistics, the Agriculture Department has decided to sweep them out the door.

"Broomcorn acreage has declined sharply during recent years and has reached a point of minor importance at the national level with production limited to three states," the department said Monday.

Thus, USDA said, broomcorn statistics no longer will be reported. Officials said broomcorn is produced only in Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

But back in 1915 when USDA started broomcorn figures, it was a fair-sized crop. It was not as big as ordinary corn or wheat, but out in the Southwest and even in parts of the Corn Belt, broomcorn was important for many farmers.

It was also essential for housewives who didn't have the fancy new electric sweepers. And brooms were also handy for shooing stray cats and stubborn salesmen.

They still make brooms from broomcorn, says H. James Tippet of the department's Statistical Reporting Service. But imports from Mexico and brooms made from synthetics have taken a big share of the market.

In 1915, according to Tippet's records, farmers harvested 307,000 acres of broomcorn — some 68,900 tons which brought them $93 a ton.

By 1923 the broomcorn acreage was at its peak at 536,000 acres and was bringing growers $160 a ton. Another big year was 1935, when farmers had more than 500,000 acres, but the price was less than $74 a ton.

Then in World War II prices rose again, and in 1944 broomcorn was harvested from 382,000 acres — the most since 1935 — and brought $215 a ton. Prices stayed relatively high and soared to $436 a ton in 1951, during the Korean War, when about 260,000 acres were harvested.

But by 1970 the acreage was dwindling fast. That year farmers harvested 87,000 acres of broomcorn for an average of $424 per ton. And in 1974, according to USDA, only 7,300 acres were harvested in Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Ironically, prices soared to a record of $801 per ton.

Favorable growing season helping many farm products

WASHINGTON (AP) — A generally favorable growing season is having an effect on some other agricultural products as well as the mainstay crops of corn and wheat.

The 1975 apple crop, for example, is expected to be a record of 7.3 billion pounds, up 13 per cent from last year and 9 per cent more than the previous high of 6.7 billion pounds in 1969, says the Agriculture Department.

Apple production in the eastern states is expected to total 3.2 billion pounds, up 16 per cent from last year. Production of apples expected to be 1.3 billion in the central states, up 17 per cent, and 2.8 billion in the West, up 8 per cent.

The department said in its July 1 crop forecast issued this week that peach output also is larger, estimated at more than 2.9 billion pounds, an increase of 1 per cent from June 1 prospects and 3 per cent above 1974.

Pear production was put at 750,750 tons, up 2 per cent from last year.

Dairy farmers caught in cost-price pinch

Dairy farmers are caught in a cost-price squeeze, according to Jim Polson, area extension agent in Farm Management for the Washington C.H. extension Area.

Dairymen are receiving approximately $8 per hundredweight for their milk; however, it is costing many of them over $10 per hundredweight to produce it. This was one of the results of a recent study of the 1974 records of 160 progressive Ohio dairy farmers. The $10 cost included family labor at $2.66 an hour, and a 7.5 per cent return on the farmer's investment.

Dairymen and others attending Dairy Day July 30 at the Chester and Ralph Schweitzer farm near Fincastle, Ohio will learn some of the latest methods of producing milk at the lowest possible cost.

There is a lot of difference between farms and farmers. The top 10 per cent of the dairymen in the study were producing milk for $8.25 per cwt., while the least efficient had costs running $11 per cwt. and more. The low-cost operator's herds averaged over 14,000 pounds of milk per cow, while their feed cost per pound of milk produced was the lowest.

Feed accounts for approximately 60 per cent of the cost of producing milk. Low cost balanced rations and economical feed production are two of the keys to making money in dairying. Other important areas include: milking procedures, nursery care, raising replacements, records, and manure disposal. Extension Dairy Specialists and Agronomists will be discussing and answering questions about these and related topics at Dairy Day.

Dairy Day will begin at 9:30 a.m. July 30 with tours of the Schweitzer diary facilities. Tour stops will be manned by Extension dairy specialists, while the afternoon program will include wagon tours of cropping demonstrations. Extension agronomists will man the tour stops and discuss no-tillage corn and hay production. Anyone with an interest in learning more about profitable dairying is invited to attend.

The farm is located just off U.S. 62, one-half mile north of Fincastle.

Love chocolate? here's how to really care for it

NOTE - This is the fourth in a series of the Story of Chocolate.

Chocolate: it's a year-round taste treat, a really pleasurable food.

Like any fine food, chocolate should be properly stored to reap all its full, rich flavor, especially during the warm summer months. Not that chocolate spoils; it doesn't. But it does become discolored when it is exposed to too much heat, or too much moisture.

This discoloration is called "bloom." To understand bloom, one must understand the delicate, even exquisite, nature of chocolate.

A one-ounce bar of chocolate is really about 200 billion — that's right, 200 billion — individual cocoa and sugar particles. Each of these particles is coated, actually suspended, in cocoa butter — the pure oil from the cocoa bean. There are so many cocoa and sugar particles that the cocoa butter covers a surface area more than 100 square feet. Remember, this is only a one-ounce bar.

Cocoa butter is an amazing substance. One of the stablest fats known to man, it lasts years at room temperature. It also melts at about 92 degrees Fahrenheit — and that's the real bonus. It allows real chocolate to melt in the mouth, the Chocolate Manufacturers Association tells us. When a piece of chocolate is popped in the mouth, the cocoa butter melts quickly, unlocking the flavor of each particle of cocoa and sugar. You might say it's a taste explosion.

Yet this very property also causes the chocolate to "bloom." When chocolate is exposed to high temperatures, the cocoa butter will melt and rise to the surface. When the chocolate hardens, a gray film remains. That's why chocolate should never be left in a hot place: for instance, on a radiator, table or windowsill in sunlight, or a car parked in full sun.

Chocolate will also bloom when it is exposed to moisture. Water on chocolate will dissolve the sugar particles out of their cocoa-butter coating. When the water evaporates, the sugar — a gray film — remains on the candy.

Chocolate that has developed bloom is perfectly safe to eat. However, it may not be as creamy as when it was bought fresh. This chocolate could best be used for cooking and baking.

To get the full flavor benefit from chocolate, follow these few simple rules suggested by the Chocolate Manufacturers Association:

On a hot summer day, keep in a cool place. Over 80 degrees, milk chocolate will begin to soften; over 85 degrees, it will begin to melt.

Ideal conditions for storing chocolate are 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit and 50 per cent humidity.

Keep chocolate away from moisture. Refrigerating or freezing chocolate is really unnecessary — often unaesthetic. When chocolate warms or is defrosted, moisture usually will form on the surface, causing bloom.

The keeping power of chocolate is well documented. One leading chocolate manufacturer reports that last year it received a letter from a woman saying that when her kitchen was being renovated, she found a bag of chocolate baking pieces in an air-tight container on the top pantry shelf. She made cookies with the pieces. Curious, she sent the wrapper to the company to find out when the chocolate was made. The company checked its files. With that type of wrapper, the chocolate pieces had to have been made between 1940 and 1944! While no one would suggest that someone should wait 30 years to eat the chocolate purchased last week, it does show that chocolate is virtually spoil-proof.

The Chocolate Manufacturers Association is comprised of 15 member companies devoted principally to the manufacture and distribution of fine chocolate and cocoa products.

Bloomington Headstart goes to Fair

The Bloomington Headstart Program, Community Action Commission, was the last group to attend the Fayette County Fair Friday morning, where they were 'treated' to rides and free cold drinks, as the other groups were throughout the week. Present with the students were their teacher, Miss Kathy Wallace and assistant Mrs. Margaret Thomas, along with aides Ruby Coy, Mary Runnels and Cheryl Robinson, and Mrs. J. E. Tremlett, social worker, and her assistant Mrs. Juliana Harris.

Also the following volunteers and parents, Mrs. J. W. Wallace, Mrs. Carol Hixson, Mrs. Grace McFadden, Mrs. Mildred White, Mrs. James Harris, Mrs. William Mahoney, Mrs. Charlotte P. Haines and Mrs. Louise Cruse. Other helpers were Diane and Jack Alltop, Mrs. Judy Heinze, Lisa and Sandy Walker, Lisa Mahorney, Mrs. Virginia Wilson, Alanna Thomas and John Shiltz.

The Kona De Wa Ki Ki Camp Fire group, under the leadership of Mrs. Edwin Ford and Mrs. Dallmayer, with girls Janet Robinson, Shelley Jette, Jill Thompson and Susan Wilson, also assisted.

Society names concert soloists

Soloists for the 4 p.m. Aug. 10 concert of the Fayette County Choral Society to be held at First Presbyterian Church, will be Mrs. Wayne King, soprano, Gary Browning, baritone and Allen Dunlap, tenor. In the final number the chorus will be assisted by Bill Metais on the trumpet, and Nelly Maude Case, at the organ. Miss Case, organist and choir master at Christ Episcopal Church in Waltham, Mass., will open the concert with a group of organ selections.

At the next rehearsal on Monday at 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, an election of officers will take place.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Glen I. McCoy of 816 Millwood Ave., have returned home from Chicago, Ill., where they attended the National Professional Photographers of America Conventions for five days.

Cooking chicken outdoors on the grill is always a pleasant way to serve a summertime meal. This year, it's also an important way to conserve energy. Not only do you save the energy required to cook the chicken, you also avoid heating the stove which in turn raises the temperature of the kitchen and necessitates more energy to cool the house.

Chicken is a great favorite as a main course for special occasion dinners. In a nationwide consumer survey conducted by the National Broiler Council to determine attitudes regarding preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken, more than 75 per cent of those responding said they frequently served chicken for important meals.

Couple honored at get-together

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McCoy and Don McCoy of Sabina, entertained recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Lynch and Asha of Boston, Mass., who are here visiting. The Lynch family will be moving to Pakistan soon.

Guests present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Lynch and Ryan of Washington C. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hurst and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moxey, all of Cleveland.

Golden anniversary is observed

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kelley, 125 River Road, held open house at their home in observance of their golden wedding anniversary. The Kelleys received their guests from 2 until 5 p.m. in the basement family room, which was beautifully decorated with various flower arrangements, many of which were gifts. Mrs. Donald Denen was in charge of the gift table and Mrs. Terry Taylor presided at the guest book.

The reception table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a lovely bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath with the leaves sprayed gold. This was flanked on either side with triple silver candle holders with lighted antique gold tapers. A two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with gold roses and white love birds perched on wedding rings, was topped with a white filigree base ornament featuring a hanging gold bell in an arch of gold and white flowers. Amid the flowers was a golden "50".

Guests were served individual cakes topped with a gold "50", twin wedding bell ice cream molds, decorated with yellow roses and green leaves, nuts, wintergreen flavored mints, coffee and punch. Mrs. McKinley Kirk presided at the silver coffee service, Mrs. S.G. Haukedahl served punch, and Mrs. Kenneth Kelly served the cake and ice cream.

Hostesses for the occasion was the Kelley's daughter, Kathleen, assisted by Mrs. Danny Kirkpatrick. Others assisting throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Richard Stinson, Mrs. James Tope, Miss Teri Lynn Miller, Mrs. Orville Blanton, Mrs. Edwin Scharenberg, and Mrs. Leonard Miller.

Guests were from Columbus, London, South Solon, South Charleston, Ironton, Lima, Hillsboro, New Holland, Mount Sterling, Jeffersonville, Bloomington and Washington Court House. The two special highlights of the afternoon were a telephone call from Austin, Texas and the personal congratulations of Mr. Bob McEwen, State Representative of the Seventy-Seventh District.

Buy the best produce for canning and freezing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Select only the best fresh fruits and vegetables for home canning and freezing. When you're investing your time and effort, invest a little more and start with top quality produce. It will pay off in better texture, color and flavor when the food is thawed or opened.

Jane Uetz, home economist with the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, points out that as supplies of summer fruits and vegetables peak between now and September, more and more consumers will be tempted to turn to home canning and freezing to take advantage of present plentiful supplies of top quality produce in the market.

Preserving foods at home is an intelligent way to make the family food dollars go further in the months ahead but, Miss Uetz says, there are certain tips and precautions that first-timers should heed.

Fresh fruits and vegetables for freezing or canning should be at peak of ripeness and processed as soon as possible after they are harvested. Choose fresh, firm fruits and young, tender vegetables. Use only produce free of bruises or any signs of wilting. Sort for size and ripeness to insure even cooking.

Wash all fruits and vegetables thoroughly under running water. Avoid soaking, as this may cause loss of flavor and food value.

While the chances are slim, there is danger that foods improperly canned at home may become infected with spoilage organisms which, if eaten, could cause death or serious illness. However, the possibility can be removed by following a few easy steps.

There are three methods used to preserve fresh fruits and vegetables. The first, boiling-water bath, is used for fruits, tomatoes and pickled vegetables. Another, used for all vegetables except tomatoes, is the steam-pressure canner. Also, the open kettle method may be used for preserves, jams, jellies and butters.

Regardless of the method used, it is vitally important to follow directions provided by the manufacturers of home canning equipment, jars and sealers.

If you have specific question, don't guess at the answers — call your local Cooperative Extension Service listed in the telephone directory under county government offices.

To prevent contamination, fresh produce must be processed at the temperature and for the time described in a container with an air-tight seal.

When foods are canned correctly, they can be stored for as long as a year in a cool, dry, dark place.

There are precautions to take, too, before serving home-canned fruits or vegetables. Any container that has a bulging end or lid, a leak, is spurting liquid, or has an off odor when opened should be destroyed. Since children and pets have a way of getting into things, be sure to dispose of these foods where they cannot find them.

To serve home-canned vegetables, bring them to a rolling boil and then cover and boil for ten minutes. Spinach and corn should be boiled an additional ten minutes.

Vegetables to be frozen should be washed and then blanched — heated in boiling water for the time specified for the vegetable and the size of the pieces — and then cooled immediately.

The most satisfactory way to pack produce for the freezer is to use the size container that will hold enough of the fruit or vegetable for one meal. Frozen fruits and vegetables maintain high quality for 8 to 12 months when sorted at 0 degrees F. or below.

Many fresh items such as peaches, apricots, pears, plums, tomatoes, beets, carrots and corn are ideal for freezing or canning. For the best dollar and food value, follow the seasons in your fresh produce department.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

A psychologist recommends, "Wandering through your rooms, and as you look at your possessions maybe once a day, remind yourself, 'There is nothing here that isn't going to have to be disposed of by somebody else some day! Accustom yourself to looking at your possessions and your relationships with others in this context', he suggests.

MT field trip notes

EDITOR'S NOTE: They're back! — the 24 Miami Trace High School students who went on the MT summer field trip under the supervision of Miami Trace earth science teacher Harold Gass and Miami Trace guidance counselor Fred Doyle and below is the last of the Cheryl Blue's diary installments. The duration of the trip was 22 days and Cheryl acted as reporter.

July 16, 1975
After pulling ourselves out of our warm sleeping bags and eating breakfast, we were on our way. Before we left the Great Sand Dunes National Monument we got to go out in the sand. To get to the sand dunes we had to cross a small stream and the water was really icy. Afterwards most of us put our shoes back on because the sand was also cold in the early morning.

The campers who were full of energy climbed to the top of the high sand dune, while the others who were still sleepy climbed to the top of the small sand dunes to sit and talk. We stayed in this area for about an hour and a half just exploring the tan colored sand with the mountains in the background.

We then headed out and didn't stop until we got to a roadside park in Bent County, Colorado. Here we ate lunch. Our next stop was in Larned, Kansas, where we went to a Dairy Queen. Everyone enjoyed this since we were all tired and hungry after such a long drive.

Our last stop for the day was at a campground at the Marion Dam near Marion, Kansas.

July 17, 1975
We ate breakfast, packed the vans and trailers and were on our way. We stopped along the road near Elmdale, Kansas to pick up Sea Urchin Spines and Crinoid Stems. Some people in our group even found shark teeth.

We went through the Tallgrass Prairie region in Kansas and after this we got on the Kansas Turnpike. Here we had a flat tire on Mr. Gass' van. Of course, we had a spare and the new tire was on the van soon.

The countryside in Kansas is about the same as Ohio. Everyone was glad to see corn and beanfields again. We stopped at a roadside park for lunch.

We didn't stop again until we arrived at Graham Cave State Park in Missouri. We ate dinner here and set up camp. We had our own special campfire talk tonight. Ranger Dave Bradford talked to us about the state. Then Larry Sheldon, an archeologist, told us about Graham Cave where he had done alot of digging. He had many artifacts which he showed us: spears, arrowheads and toothed-arrowheads. He also showed us some hematite (iron ore) which the Indians used for red paint. Mr. Sheldon passed out pamphlets about Missouri after the talk. He also answered all of our questions. We got to sleep fast after the long day.

July 18, 1975
After eating breakfast we were on our way, but before leaving Graham Cave State Park, we stopped at the cave. Mr. Sheldon, the man who spoke to us the previous night, talked to us again and explained the ways archeologist dig in the cave.

Our next stop was at the Cahokia Mound State Park in Illinois. Our group went through a museum and then a guide took us on a tour of the Indian Mounds. The guide also took us to another part of the park where some college students reconstructed an Indian Village and the students were living in the grass huts they made this summer!

We stopped at McDonald's in Collinsville, Ill. and the lunch tasted good after the long drive. We then rode in the vans until it was time for our evening meal. Everyone was getting restless in the hot vans so we stopped at Pizza Hut in Indianapolis, Inc. and this was a first on the trip for us. It tasted delicious!

After supper everyone was excited to get home and so happy that almost no one went to sleep. When we finally crossed the border into Ohio everyone cheered! We stopped when we got into Xenia and called the Bowers' and they notified all our parents we would be arriving at Miami Trace High School soon.

It seemed like it took forever to get there! Everyone was happy to see their parents but we hated to leave our classmates and counselors. It seemed as if we were breaking up a family. I think everyone loved the trip but we were glad to be back in good ol' Fayette County!

Reorganized rail proposal readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly one-third of the track owned by seven financially ailing northeastern railroads should be sold, subsidized or abandoned and the remaining track consolidated into one system, the U.S. Railway Association will recommend Monday.

Sources said the association's final plan for maintaining rail service in the 17 northeastern and midwestern states served by the ailing carriers calls for the creation of a 15,000-mile streamlined rail system stretching from the East Coast to the Mississippi River.

The plan recommends that 5,700 miles of little-used track now owned by the carriers either be abandoned or operations over those lines be subsidized by a combination of federal and state aid. Those lines carry only 2 per cent of all traffic now moving on the railroads, the sources said.

If approved by Congress, the reorganization would be the biggest in American history, the association said. Total book value of the property of the seven carriers is estimated at $4.444 billion by the planning agency. The railroads contend that the actual value of their property as a working railroad is much higher.

Congress will have 60 working days to approve the proposal. If it rejects the plan, the railway association, the Department of Transportation and the Rail Services Planning Office of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be ordered to confer and make necessary changes.

Once those changes are made, Congress then will have an additional 60 working days to approve or disapprove the modified plan.

Although the reorganization will affect 17 states directly, the entire nation will be affected indirectly. Those northeastern and midwestern states contain 55 per cent of the country's manufacturing plants, and many of these products are shipped by rail. In addition, the region is a major producer of coal and grain and a major manufacturer of steel.

The railroads the association proposes to consolidate are the Penn Central, the Erie Lackawanna, the Reading, the Central of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley, the Lehigh and Hudson River and the Ann Arbor.

The massive Penn Central will form the backbone of the new system, to be called ConRail. Much of the Erie Lackawanna and the Reading will be sold to privately owned railroads to allow those roads to expand into major markets, creating competition for ConRail.

Brewer, Nicklaus tied in Canadian

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Old pro Gay Brewer seemed amazed, amazed and just a little bit sheepish about his own heroics.

"Uncanny," he said with an embarrassed grin.

"You have to be dead lucky," he said. "That's what happens when you're playing good and you're scoring good. If I'd been three or four over par, it would have taken me three to get down."

But instead of taking three strokes to get down from a couple of sand traps, he holed the explosion shots for a pair of birdies that helped him tie Jack Nicklaus for the second round lead in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"I can't remember ever holing two bunker shots in a single round before—and certainly not two in three holes like I did today," said the gray-haired, 43-year-old Brewer who scored the last of his 11 official tour triumphs in this Canadian national championship in 1972.

Brewer's two 68s—the last one also included an eagle three—gave him a 136 total, four under par for two trips over the weather-plagued, 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course.

Nicklaus matched the total with a second-round 71 that was achieved when the wind was at its worst, 40 miles an hour or more and strong enough to knock down concession tents and power lines. He'd had a course-record 65 Thursday, a round that was interrupted for more than three hours by a violent thunderstorm.

"Considering the conditions," Nicklaus said, "the 71 was a better round than the 65."

Ken Still's three-under-par 67, the best round of the raw, windy, chilly day, lifted him to within one stroke of the lead at 137. Australian David Graham was next with a 71-138.

Tom Weiskopf, who matched Nicklaus' opening 65, blew to a wildly erratic 74 that included three birdies, five bogeys and a double bogey.

Weiskopf dropped back to 139 and was tied at that figure with Hubert Green and Mike McCullough, the only other men under par after two rounds. Green had a 71, McCullough a 72.

Gary Player of South African shot a 73 for 140, like Nicklaus when the weather was at its worst. Arnold Palmer had another 73 and a 141 total. Lee Trevino took a 72—143 and Johnny Miller 74—144.

Reds, Dodgers split twinbill

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Mike Marshall might have been thinking "sweep." Maybe Pete Rose was, too. But he was also thinking about what Marshall was about to throw.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who went into Cincinnati Friday trailing the Reds by a mammoth 12½ games in the National League East, looked like they might make a nice dent in that lead.

They'd beaten Cincinnati 4-3 in the first game of the twilight doubleheader, riding Marshall's two perfect innings of relief, and led the nightcap 3-2 in the seventh when Marshall again came out of the bullpen on a rescue mission.

Then Rose took over. He'd been Marshall's last victim in the first game, taking a called third strike.

This time, though, Marshall was the victim. Rose jumped on an inside screwball and rammed it for a three-run homer that catapulted the Reds to a 6-3 victory.

And the day ended the way it had begun, with the Reds still 12½ games ahead of the Dodgers.

In the rest of the league, Pittsburgh routed Montreal 6-1, New York beat Chicago 6-3, San Francisco bombed Houston 8-1 and, in two other twin-bills, San Diego swept Atlanta 7-3 and 8-1 while St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning 4-3 and losing 5-2.

"It was my turn to win this time," Rose said of Marshall. "He won the battle in the first game."

"You could see momentum developing for the Dodgers," he continued. "If they had beat us twice they would have been thinking 'sweep.' I learned a long time ago you can't take anything for granted in this game. I remember 1964 when Philadelphia had the big lead and blew it."

In the opener, the Dodgers trailed 3-2 going into the eighth. But Steve Garvey singled and John Hale doubled to tie it and Hale moved to third on Ron Cey's grounder.

After Leron Lee walked, Rawly Eastwick replaced Clay Carroll. Manny Mota, batting for Bill Russell, then bunted down the first base line and Hale reached home, just beating Dan Driessen's throw.

Auto, homeowner insurance to rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The rising cost of auto parts and the sharp jump in claims may force an increase in auto and homeowners insurance rates, an executive of a major insurance company says.

John E. Fisher, president of Nationwide Insurance, said auto claims have gone up 20 per cent and homeowner claims have jumped 22 per cent in the last year.

"More and more companies are offering auto and homeowners insurance at a loss," Fisher said, "because these coverages have become underpriced as a result of rising claims costs."

The average claim for a damaged car is $455 while the average homeowner claim is $498, he said.

Nationwide is the third largest auto insurer in Ohio and the sixth largest in the country. In homeowners insurance, it ranks third in Ohio and 11th in the nation.

"Unless there's dramatic improvement in the claims picture—and there are signs that it's only worsening—insurance rates will have to go up for these coverages."

The chief cause of bigger auto repair claims, Fisher said, is the rising cost of auto parts. He said the cost of parts most frequently damaged in traffic accidents has risen 41 per cent since 1971.

Fisher said the federal government's cost of living index showed that car insurance rates were about a half per cent lower at the end of the first three months of this year than they were four years ago.

"That is rather significant in view of rampant inflation," he said. During the same time, he said government figures showed that the general cost of living rose nearly 32 per cent.

Here's How Alcove Bed Solve Space Problems

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Alcove beds are becoming popular in the current space crunch.

It is reasonably simple for an experienced do-it-yourselfer to build one, if the space is available. It is the choice of method that puzzles some do-it-yourselfers.

If the smaller, lighter, 30-inch mattress is to be used, setting it on a frame covered with plywood that is supported on the three sides nearest the walls may do the trick. But if a larger mattress - 36 inch or 39-inch - is to be used, it may be more reassuring to have firmer support.

A showroom at High Point, N.C., uses a method which provides the super sturdiness necessary when a larger mattress is used. At least you'll know with this cage-like contraption that you aren't going to sag. Even so, many do-it-yourselfers might feel that the additional support isn't necessary even with the larger mattress. Much depends on the confidence of the worker.

The box-like frame was built of 2 by 2s with 2 by 4s used for supports and 2 by 2s used as crosspieces. Supports and crosspieces were set about 8 inches apart. It was covered with 3/4-inch chipboard. Frame and stringers were nailed to the 2 by 4 supports with 3/4-inch nails after the holes had been drilled in the 2 by 2s to prevent splitting.

Four 2 by 2s were cut the length of the alcove and the supports were cut 14 1/2 inches to provide a height of about 20 inches above the floor when the mattress was in place.

Paneling was used over the studs of the alcove opening's frame, which was built on 16-inch studs on center with allowances made for top plate and sole plate on either side. A double header supported the short studs that ran from the top plate to the header.

DO-IT-YOURSELF ALCOVE—This one has bookshelves and the mattress is set on a heavy box.

The room at High Point was designed by Douglas Sackfield of Simmons' Interior Design Department to illustrate a special "bunkie" mattress which can be set into the alcove. It is the kind of mattress used in bunk beds.

"Actually a board over the frame isn't necessary with this mattress because it comes with a piece of plywood and foam rubber attached to it," said a spokesman for the designer. "It can be used with other bases."

They worked with 40-inch by 76-inch dimensions to accommodate the 39-inch mattress, 75 inches long. (A 36-inch mattress is also available.)

Another kind of frame, the spokesman pointed out, might have supports at the ends with slats across an upper frame that could support the mattress with its built-in board. This method would provide storage space under the bed if one needs it.

The Potential 'Wonder Drug'

Research information is pouring from laboratories all over the world about those remarkable substances in the body: prostaglandins.

If only a portion of the experimental work is correct and substantiated, prostaglandins will undoubtedly be the "wonder drugs" of this era, or any other era, of mankind.

It is said that prostaglandins can play an important role in the treatment of epilepsy, in the control of high blood pressure, in the healing of stomach ulcers and in the reversal of acute heart attacks.

The onset of labor, the prevention of miscarriages, the reduction of clot formation and even nutrition control are affected by these remarkable substances.

One exciting report seems to indicate that "PGs" may even reduce the hazards of heavy smoking and alcoholism.

More than a thousand scientists gathered in Florence, Italy, recently to learn about the numerous and recently discovered potential roles of PGs. They were overwhelmed by the massive amount of encouraging current study involving prostaglandins.

Soon, many of the purely experimental studies will be translated to human research and treatment.

A special ultrasonic instrument hooked up to a computer is now being used for the early detection of tumors of the prostate gland.

A group of doctors at the Batelle Institute in Frankfurt, Germany, believes that their device can distinguish between normal prostates and early or suspected tumors.

A large study has been set in motion in an effort to substantiate their initial findings. The early reports are encouraging.

The key to treatment of cancers of the prostate or tumors anywhere in the body is early recognition and intensive treatment.

Junta heads Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The creation of a powerful triumvirate of generals to govern Portugal was seen today as a victory for the Communist-backed premier, Gen. Vasco Gonçalves.

The 30-man Revolutionary Council on Friday designated Gonçalves and two other officers to "centralize" authority and create "a strong political direction."

The leftist military is wrestling with its worst political crisis since the officers ousted the old fascist regime 15 months ago.

An official announcement said the Armed Forces Movement decided to "concentrate political and military power" in President Francisco da Costa Gomes, Gonçalves, and the commander of the internal security forces, Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho — a nationalistic leftist.

There were reports that several council members opposed to Gonçalves, including Foreign Minister Maj. Ernesto Melo Antunes, had resigned.

The three were given virtually unlimited powers, over the opposition of moderates to such a concentration of authority.

Expect higher grain stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if the Soviet Union buys moderately more wheat and corn than now known to be on order, figures by the Agriculture Department show that U.S. grain stockpiles a year from now will be up from current low levels.

The catch is that farmers will have to harvest the record wheat and corn crops that the department currently is projecting.

A new "supply and demand" report issued Friday showed few changes from earlier estimates of U.S. grain production and total supplies. The report compared the 1974-75 season just ended for wheat on June 30 and the corn year to end Sept. 30, against what the situation looks like in the year ahead.

Good nutrition and plenty of rest form the first line of defense in the battle of the bugs; flu and colds. To add nutrition to your meals try sausage. It's an excellent source of protein, B vitamins and minerals such as iron, copper and phosphorus.

Opening lead — Ace of diamonds.

Occasionally, at the bridge table, players are overcome by an urge to bid at every opportunity. While in any particular case, this may work well, in the long run it can be expensive.

The above hand was played Tuesday night, and Mrs. J.C. Wright held the north hand. After the club opening bid, a number of actions could be justified with the North's holding.

Although a point short of a standard no-trump overall, a case be made for that bid. Some players might double, but with only a doubleton spade, this is not recommended. Still others might overcall a diamond — a good lead — directing call, but also not recommended for frequent use.

Mrs. Charles Fabb kept her string of victories intact by capturing her fourth straight victory in July Tuesday night. Playing with Mrs. Larry Coil, she topped all east-west pairs with a score of 103. They were followed by Dr. and Mrs. K.K. Burris, who scored 89.

Placing first among the north-south players were Mrs. J.C. Wright and George Malek with 112. Bruce Strickling and Mrs. Craig Vandemark finished second with 97. There were seven full tables and par was 84.

Mrs. Wright made the call which is at least as good, if not much better, than any of the others, a pass. There is no law of bridge that requires bidding each time you hold points, and it is often better to see how the bidding progresses before taking action.

When the bidding nearly died at two clubs, North reopened with a double. Partner bid two spades which became the final contract and was easily made.

Had the opponents carried on in clubs, North would likely muster a double and hold declarer to seven tricks.

Had North doubled at the first opportunity, South would undoubtedly press to at least three spades if the opponents continue bidding — expecting three-card support in dummy.

Pulling from spades to no-trump will do North very little good. First because a double and then a no-trump bid should show 19 points, and secondly because only with a good spade break and superb declarer play can as many as eight tricks be made in no-trump.

All things considered, North describes his hand much better by bidding later in the hand.

If the opponents, by chance, should have the great balance of points, the pass has the added advantage of not helping declarer locate the missing cards.

When should you pass with points? No one can answer that, for each hand has its own characteristics. However, anytime you hold great length or strength in the opponent's bid suit, a pass should be considered as a possibility.

Solar energy system said more efficient

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Owens-Illinois Inc. has unveiled a tubular solar energy collector, described as two to five times more efficient than present flat plate solar collectors.

Dr. George R. Mather Jr., senior scientist on the project, said the collector can operate efficiently over a wide range of temperatures and can power heating and cooling devices which now use fossil fuels.

By The Associated Press
A beautiful weekend is in store for Ohioans with sunny and cooler weather bringing relief from summer heat.

It was clear and cool Friday night with early morning temperatures dipping well into the 50s over most of the state. At dawn, readings ranged from around the 60 degree mark along the Ohio River in southern Ohio to 52 at Youngstown in the northeast.

It will be cool again tonight with lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

A cool high pressure system over the southern Great Lakes will drift east and reach the mid Atlantic coast by Sunday. A cold front from southern Canada through North Dakota and Montana is moving east across the Great Lakes. This front could bring a few showers to northern Ohio on Sunday.

Sen. Valiquette questions rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, questioned Friday Board of Regents residency rules which she said appear to discriminate among members of the same family.

"As I understand the policy established by the Board of Regents," she said in a letter to Chancellor James A. Norton, "a person who moves into and is employed in Ohio is immediately eligible for reduced instate tuition fees."

"However, the spouse and dependent children of that person must reside in Ohio for one year before residency for instate tuition fees can be established," she wrote.

DELINQUENT TAX CLAIMS

Harold A. Hise, Fayette County treasurer, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Patricia and Cynthia Smith, Rt. 5, Washington C. H. He says the defendants are in default of payment of $1,248 in taxes and penalties on a .125-acre property in Washington C. H. The treasurer asks that the property be sold so that the taxes may be paid.

A similar suit has been filed in Common Pleas Court against Ruth Alltop, 724 Wilson St., and Helen Kearns, 689 Blackstone St., who holds power of attorney for Mrs. Alltop. The treasurer says $205 in taxes and penalties is due on Lot 724, Stevens Addition, Washington C. H., and asks that the property be sold so that the delinquent tax may be paid. He also names the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, Aid for the Aged Division, as a defendant saying that the department claims some interest in the property.

Clarksburg Field Day scheduled for July 31

CLARKSBURG — The 60th annual Clarksburg Field Day, sponsored by the Clarksburg United Methodist Church, will be held July 31 at the Clarksburg Field Day grounds, one-fourth mile east of the village on Ohio 138.

The event will be held a week earlier this year because of conflict with the Ross County Fair. With the exception of one year, the field day has been held on the first Thursday in August.

Many attractions have been scheduled for all-day and evening. These include concerts by the widely-known Adelphi Band and the Adena High School Band, amateur talent show with cash prizes, minutemen presenting the bicentennial program, magician Randy Miller of Washington C. H., a barber shop quartet from Chillicothe, Royalaires, gospel singers from Columbus, the Circulating Squares, western style square dance exhibition, and skydivers from the Rickenbacker Air Force Base.

There will also be trap shooting, horseshoe pitching, a tractor pull, pony rides, children's games climaxing with the greased pole.

The Royalaires will highlight the evening program from 8 until 9 p.m. The magician will appear at 6:30 p.m. and the barber shop quartet at 7 p.m. Minutemen will be on the afternoon program and will show slides following the gospel singers. Western style square dance exhibition will conclude the program.

The skydivers will make three jumps during the afternoon with time announced from the stage.

Fish and chicken dinners will be served beginning at 4:30 p.m. and sandwiches and other refreshments served during the day and evening.

Mongold outlasts Armbrust in demolition derby event

The race track at the Fayette County Fairgrounds served as the scene for the first of two nights of auto demolition derbies Friday.

A cash prize of $50 and a trophy were awarded to the winner of each of three preliminary heats and a grand prize of $250 plus trophy went to the winner of the final comprised of the first, second and third place finishers in the heats.

The demolition derby was marked by the appearance of Congressman William H. Harsha and State Representative Bob McEwen. The two legislators were introduced to the crowd by announcer Phil Tatman.

Dan Armbrust of Washington C.H. outlasted Donald Mongold of Washington C.H. to take the first heat. Doug Sears of South Solon took third. In the second heat, Mike Walters, of New Holland, James Matthews of Washington C.H., and Gary Collins, also of Washington C.H. finished one, two three.

In the final preliminary heat of the evening, Junior Ison of Milledgeville outpowered Terri Sword of Jeffersonville to win the heat. Terri Sword and Dave Evans of Clarksburg finished second and third, respectively.

In the nine-car finale, an unpopular decision was handed down by the judges. With Armbrust and Mongold still running, Armbrust nudged Mongold repeatedly until his car stalled, appearing to have made the final contact. However, the judge's decision not to count the nudges and award the derby to Mongold met with a chorus of boos from the near-capacity crowd. Armbrust expressed his disgust by hurling his crash helmet into the infield from the track.

Nevertheless, Mongold walked away with the $250 prize while Armbrust had to settle for second place. Walters took third after a flattened tire caused him to lose maneuverability of his car.

Turkey takes over U.S. military bases

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey said its armed forces were taking control of American bases on its soil today in reprisal for the U.S. House of Representatives' decision to continue an arms embargo on the Ankara government.

Premier Suleiman Demirel and his cabinet decided Friday night to renounce defense agreements with the United States and ordered Americans to halt activities at all 20 military bases.

However, a special status was accorded the strategic air base at Incirlik, where a squadron of 12 U.S. Air Force F4 fighters was permitted to continue operating within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The squadron is the only U.S. combat unit in Turkey. The other bases are mostly radar stations and electronic listening posts along the Soviet border.

In Washington, the Pentagon was withholding orders to the 7,000 military personnel in Turkey while officials tried to determine how far the Turks intended to go in limiting American use of the bases.

Embassy sources said messages from President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger urging moderation had been delivered to the cabinet while it was in session. The decision was seen by diplomatic observers as restrained because it fell short of closure of the bases.

American officials said they were studying a Turkish note on the cabinet decision, and the full implications of the action were not immediately clear.

Interior Minister Ogizhan Asilturk was asked whether the action means eventual removal of American personnel from the bases. He replied that "the details are to be worked out by the Turkish general staff according to the needs of the situation."

He added, "We are effectively assuming control of all American bases."

An announcement broadcast over the state radio and television while the cabinet was in session said Turkish armed forces would be in "total control" of the American installations today.

It said the decision was taken in view of the fact that existing bilateral defense agreements between Turkey and the United States are no longer valid. The statement specifically referred to the refusal of the House of Representatives to resume arms sales to Turkey.

The Ford administration had sought a partial lifting of the ban, imposed after U.S.-supplied weapons were used in last year's Turkish invasion of Cyprus. The invasion of the disputed island prompted Greece to pull out of NATO's military activities.

Coffee Break . .

OHIO RESIDENTS who have not been paying the Ohio income tax can expect to be contacted by the Ohio Tax Commission, says commissioner Gerald S. Collins.

Many persons have not been filing Ohio Income Tax returns because they qualify for tax credits equalling the amount of tax owed, he said, but others simply have been delinquent.

The state has begun contacting all persons who filed federal tax returns and listed an Ohio address, but failed to file an Ohio income tax statement.

A letter of explanation will accompany a request for information as to why a state tax form was not submitted. The auditing staff will then follow up against those who are delinquent.

Nixon grand jury testimony to remain secret, Ruth says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's 11 hours of grand jury testimony last month will remain secret, at least for the foreseeable future, says special Watergate prosecutor Henry S. Ruth.

Ruth said Friday there is no legal basis on which to seek public disclosure of the Nixon testimony that Ruth and two members of a now-defunct Watergate grand jury obtained June 23-24 in San Clemente, Calif.

"I don't know of any law which allows release of grand jury testimony," Ruth told newsmen after testifying before a closed meeting of a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Ruth also confirmed "without elaboration that his office is still investigating who was responsible for the 18½-minute gap on the White House tapes and various dealings of Nixon's friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

Ruth said he will meet Monday with Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi to discuss the future of the special prosecutor's office, which is scheduled to close shop in September, and to talk about what should go into the unit's final report.

The plan now is to keep the report relatively narrow in scope, covering only the office's policies and summarizing its actions and not including any raw data such as the Nixon testimony, Ruth said.

He said there are between 200,000 and 250,000 pages of Watergate facts "already available."

Veteran harness horseman Forrest Short

Scioto Downs feature claims veteran driver

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Forrest Short, 81-year-old veteran harness driver from Circleville, died Friday night as a result of an accident at Scioto Downs that involved three horses, including J.W. Song, Short's pacer in the featured ninth race.

A preliminary investigation by the official judges disclosed that as the field passed the half-mile pole and headed down the backstretch, Heather M. driven by Phil Siebold broke stride. Short and J.W. Song failed to clear, and Summer Promise driven by Ron Stokely rammied into J.W. Song, knocking both horses and drivers to the track, a track spokesman said.

J.W. Song fell on Short and Summer Promise knocked Stokely out of the sulky onto the track.

Short was rushed to Mercy Hospital by the Hamilton Township Fire Department emergency squad. He was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Short was born in Ross County on June 24, 1894. He came into the sport of harness racing late in life, beginning after he had retired as Pickaway County auditor in 1955. He had served in the capacity for 12 years.

Short won the first race staged at Scioto Downs on opening night on Oct. 9, 1959 with the pacer Raider Volo.

In 1960, Short was the leading driver at Scioto Downs with 22 victories, 13 seconds and 12 thirds in 88 starts.

Short and his brother Harry owned, trained and drove some of the most outstanding harness horses in Ohio.

Among Short's top horses was the four-year-old Jerry Way Stallion, Jerry MacPherson. Short won 11 of 25 starts with Jerry MacPherson in 1974. He won in 2:02 2-5 at the downs and set the track pacing record at the Pickaway County fairgrounds at Circleville in 2:04 last year.

Short developed the premier Ohio pacing sire Jerry Way and drove him in the 1960 Little Brown Jug at Delaware.

President defends European journey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today defended his decision to go to Europe to join with leaders of 34 other nations in signing a statement of principles. The President termed the Helsinki agreements "a statement of good intent."

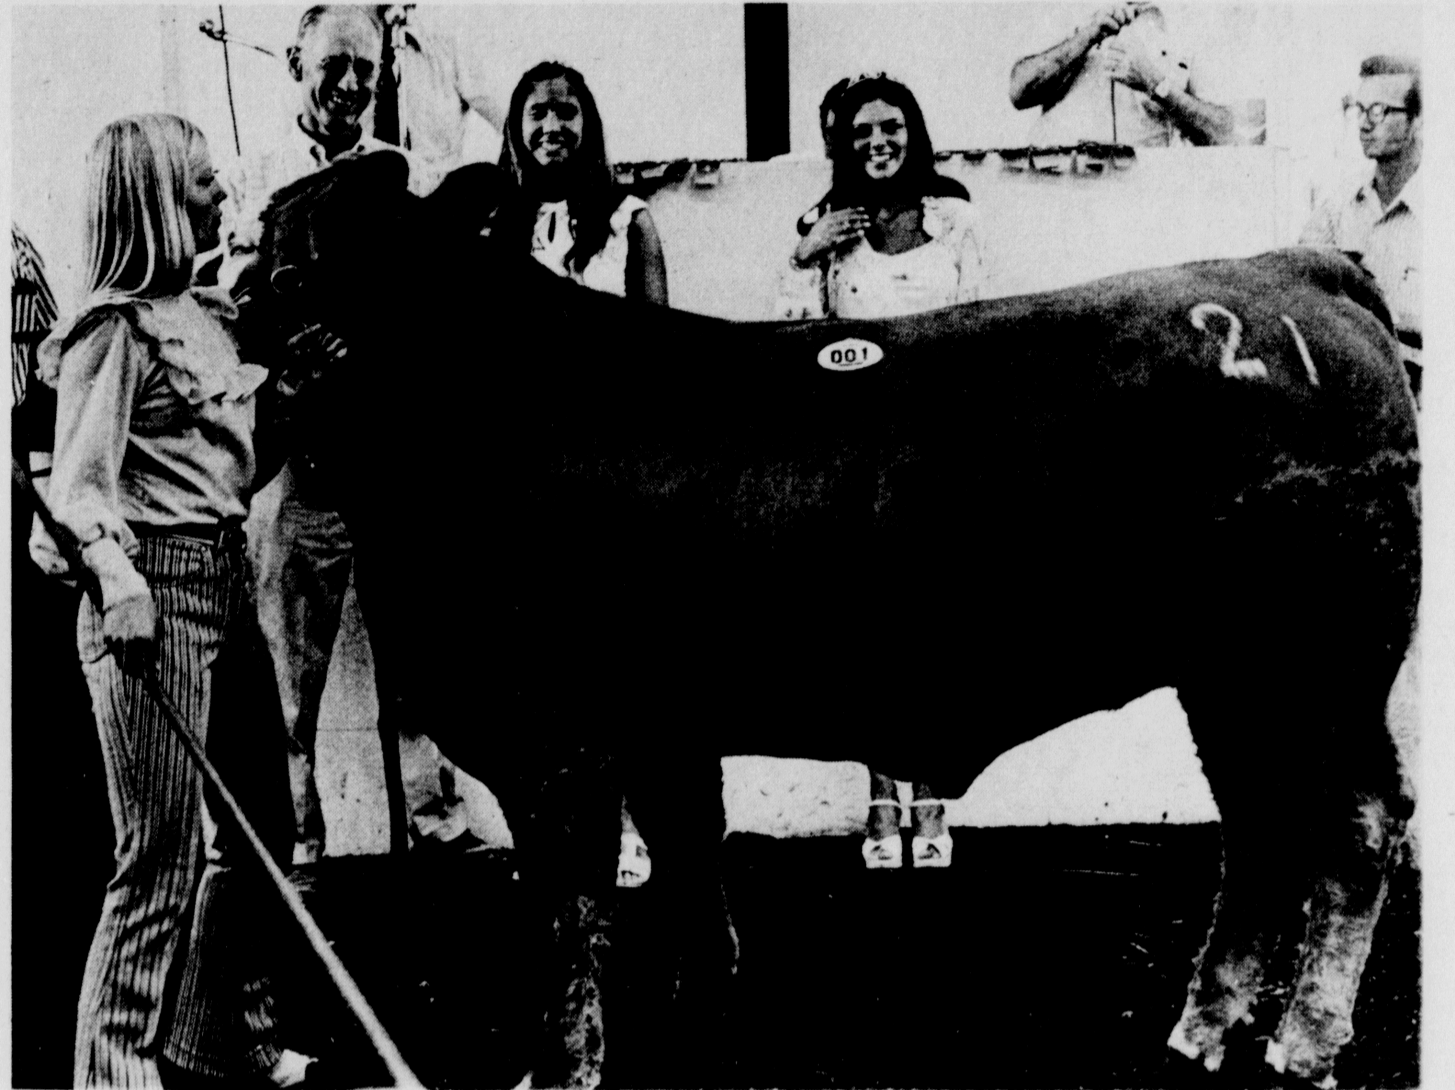

In remarks prepared for his departure from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Ford said, "The United States has never recognized the Soviet incorporation of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia and is not going to do so in Helsinki."

Some ethnic groups and some political figures have contended that the nonbinding statement of principles to be signed in the Finnish capital tacitly acknowledges Soviet hegemony over Eastern Europe.

But Ford said, "Our official policy of nonrecognition is not affected by this conference. We are not committing ourselves to anything beyond what we are already committed to by our own moral and legal standards."

The first stop on the 13,200-mile trip for the President, his wife, Betty, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will be the West German capital of Bonn, with visits scheduled later in the 10-day journey to Poland, Finland, Romania and Yugoslavia.

Ford said the Helsinki conference "represents significant progress in our continuing efforts to achieve a more stable and productive East-West relationship. The Helsinki Agreements are a statement of good intent. They represent a moral rather than a legal commitment."

FOR MENTAL RETARDATION — Ora C. Burdge of New Holland paid a record $2.10 per pound for Beth Jenks' grand champion steer at the Junior Fair steer sale Friday night. Burdge then donated the steer to the Fayette County Progressive School for the Mentally Handicapped and it was resold this time to the First National Bank of New

Champion steer donated to progressive school

More livestock marks broken

More Fayette County Junior Fair livestock sale records were broken Friday night when Beth Jenks' grand champion steer sold for $210 cwt. to Ora C. Burdge to kickoff the 1975 steer sale, the last livestock auction at the Fayette County Fair for this year.

Burdge, who paid $10 cwt. over the record price he, himself, paid last year, donated the steer to the Fayette Progressive School for the Mentally Handicapped. The steer was then resold, this time to the First National Bank of New Holland for $135 cwt. with all the proceeds going to the mentally retarded.

Steve Mace's reserve champion

steer, of the European crossbreed, sold for $141 cwt. to McDonald's Restaurants, Inc. The price is an increase of $1 cwt. over the record, established last year by McDonalds.

Miss Jenks' grand champion weighed in at 1,225 pounds and sold for $2672.50 to Burdge and $1643.75 to the First National Bank at New Holland. Mace's reserve champion brought a total of $1684.95. It's weight was 1195 pounds.

Burdge also purchased the grand champion carcass from Rusty Coe for $235 cwt. The carcass, which placed third in the on-foot evaluation, weighed 797 pounds.

The average price paid for the 66

steers was $67.27 cwt. compared with last year's $75.02 cwt. average.

Merlin Woodruff of Urbana served as the auctioneer for the steer sale, as well as the Junior Fair market barrow and lamb sales.

Pennington Bakery bought the champion angus for $71 cwt. The animal was exhibited by Susan Wilson. Kim Bryant received $71 cwt. from Coil Packing Co. for her champion English cross. The New Holland Bank paid an identical $71 cwt. for Lisa Anderson's champion calf from the Hereford breed.

The entire list of buyers and sellers from the steer sale appears on page 2 of today's Record-Herald.

Fair attendance record looms

By MARK REA

Another record-breaking steer sale and a thrilling auto demolition derby highlighted the Fayette County Fair Friday as the fair rounded into its last day of events for 1975 with anticipations of surpassing the record fair attendance last year.

Friday's fair crowd exceeded all five other days of this year's event. George Finley, fair secretary, reported the paid attendance after 4 p.m. totaled a record 4,998 bringing the fair's total attendance figure to 20,363, as compared to last year's record-setting pace of over 21,000.

Finley predicted that with today's attendance faring as well or better than Friday's, the total fair admissions will boost beyond last year's exceptional record.

He noted the new 150-car parking area at the fairgrounds was a large factor for the increasing attendance. The Good Hope Lions Club members parked 1,147 cars in the fairgrounds parking areas Friday evening, Finley said.

During Friday's Junior Fair steer sale, Beth Jenks' grand champion steer, a European crossbreed weighing 1,225 pounds, was sold to Ora C. Burdge of New Holland for a record $210 cwt.

The champion beef carcass brought $235 cwt., off the record $375 cwt. Burdge also purchased the champion carcass, cut from a steer raised by Rusty Coe.

The reserve champion brought a record $141 cwt. when McDonalds Restaurant of Washington C.H. purchased Steve Mace's European crossbred steer.

In all, 66 steers were sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff at an average of $67.27 cwt., slightly under last year's $74.02 cwt. mark.

The Junior Fair open class beef and sheep were judged Friday to conclude the livestock judging. The awards round-up was set at 1:30 p.m. today in the sales arena to close the Junior Fair activities for another year.

Donald Mongold of Washington C.H. drove his battered car longer than anyone else in the first of a two-night demolition derby slate Friday night to earn $250 and a large trophy donated by Roney's Auto Parts, Washington C.H.

A packed grandstand crowd watched the demolition derby's three elimination heats and final run. The first heat was won by Dan Armbrust of Washington C.H., the second by Mike Walters of New Holland and the third run by Junior Ison of Milledgeville.

A LONG WEEK — It's been a long week of selling for this young man. A short rest was certainly in order Friday afternoon, but finding some shade along the sun-baked midway was not easy. The balloons themselves offered a solution of sorts.

Heat winners each received $50 for their efforts.

Another demolition derby, which will feature 45 different drivers, is scheduled to being at 7:30 p.m. tonight in front of the grandstand, immediately following a skydiving feat by Paul McCowan, captain of the Kings Island skydiving team.

Rain has not been a factor at the 1975 Fayette County Fair and excluding a brief dispersal of raindrops Thursday, precipitation has been without appearance on the fairgrounds. Last year, while only a handful of people could recall the last fair without rain, it is difficult this year to meet anyone who can remember two consecutive rainless years for the fair.

The weatherman has predicted temperatures will reach into the 80s this afternoon, providing a warm, clear day to conclude the 1975 Fayette County Fair.

Opinion And Comment

Voting rights bill advances

After a long period of anxiety there is good reason now to believe that the Senate will approve renewal and expansion of the Voting Rights Act originally passed a decade ago. The way seems to have been cleared by the agreement of Mississippi's Sen. James O. Eastland, the ailing chairman of the Judiciary Committee, to allow hearings on the measure to proceed with Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan acting as chairman.

This signals the decline of effective Southern opposition to the bill, which is expected to win overwhelming Senate approval. Though Sen. James B. Allen of Alabama has indicated adamant opposition and will offer amendments to cure what he describes as the bills' "hypocrisy" and discrimination against the South, such amendments are unlikely to win support. And should Allen try a filibuster, a vote to cut off debate by imposing cloture seems almost certain.

What it all comes down to is that the Senate is at last in a position to implement the popular will by extending this significant piece of civil rights legislation. That will be the final step: the House has already approved it.

The Voting Rights Act has played a momentous part in drawing minority voters into the electoral process which is the key element in representative government. The bill promises to augment this affect by broadening the act to include Mexican-Americans and other minorities as well as blacks. The sooner this is done, the better it will be for the health of our democracy.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Bring deals to their profitable conclusions when you are sure the moment is right. You are a productive thinker, can put imagination into things. DO! SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Some matters will run smoothly others may need greater effort and better direction. In the latter case, a change in procedure might do the trick.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Stellar influences excellent for constructive action. If judicious plans have already been made, carry them out smartly; make some, if you note a stalemate to progress.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

In everyday matters, give a little! You will be surprised at the results. Your lively imagination can give a time-worn or thinly devised project the boost it requires.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your intuition and perception should be keen now. Under prevailing influences, you should win advancement, increase prestige.

YOU BORN TODAY are like most Leoites, natural leaders, sometimes militant in your methods, and always dramatic. You usually act smartly and with precision, but can antagonize associates through sarcasm and arrogance. Try to curb these traits and be more patient with those less gifted than yourself. Exceptionally versatile, you could excel in the theater, as a writer or as an artist in almost any medium; could also become a brilliant business executive or organizer but, here again, must master the attitude that you are a law unto yourself, brooking no interference from others. Adaptability is one of the traits for which you MUST strive.

Calabrese getting paid for disability

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, has been paid $9,800 in workmen's compensation benefits since 1964 after being classified by the state as 90 per cent disabled, records show.

"I have no comment whatsoever," said Calabrese, a vigorous lawmaker at 68.

"What the hell kind of a comment can I make," he added. "The file speaks for itself."

The Ohio Industrial Commission file shows the senator received the money after breaking his right ankle and spraining his right knee in the Senate parking lot Dec. 17, 1964.

James L. Nolan, director of administration for the commission, said it is not unusual for a 90 per cent permanently and partly disabled person to be active and working. He described the situation as "akin to receiving (court) damages for an injury."

Calabrese was classified 20 per cent disabled in June 1967 and paid $1,960 for the period since the injury. On Feb. 23, 1972, he was declared 70 per cent disabled and awarded $4,900 in retroactive benefits. On Sept. 19, 1973, Calabrese was classified 90 per cent disabled and given an additional $2,490.

The state paid Calabrese's doctor bills in September 1970 in addition to the compensation awards.

Medical recommendations supporting Calabrese's claims were prepared by Columbus physician Beryl M. Oser.

Calabrese's 70 per cent disability claim was paid eight days after the supporting documents were received. The order was marked "pay forthwith."

The 90 per cent award was paid five days after medical reports arrived at the commission.

"NOW LET'S SEE. WHAT CAN WE DO FOR THEM FOR CHRISTMAS?"

TV stars finding Las Vegas rough

LAS VEGAS (AP) — What do Tony Orlando & Dawn, Peter Marshall of "Hollywood Squares" and Kojak have in common?

They are among the television stars headlining lately in Las Vegas' showrooms.

Some have found the Strip tougher than a Nielsen rating. Others have broke house records.

Why do they do it? For the money mostly, as well as the experience of trying Las Vegas performing.

"This is the big leagues," says Tony Zoppi, spokesman for the Riviera Hotel.

"Why does a ball player want to play for the Yankees? If he's got any ambition at all, a performer has to come to Las Vegas."

Many of Las Vegas' biggest acts are recording stars. They caught on first with the public through television.

The pop music group, Tony Orlando & Dawn, had a bagful of gold records when they tried Las Vegas a few years ago and fizzled.

They returned last month, a year after their highly rated television show premiered, and they nearly broke all attendance records at the Riviera.

Glen Campbell has been a big draw in Las Vegas ever since his music-

comedy television hour a few years ago.

Tom Jones and Englebert Humperdink, two British recording stars, have been smash hits here ever since each had his own television show.

Peter Marshall, emcee of the Hollywood Squares game show, is bringing an act to the Desert Inn.

Like most of his television counterparts, he will sing, dance, keep up a line of light patter and generally frolic with a stageful of beautiful girls.

"What people don't realize is a guy like Peter Marshall is primarily a night club entertainer," said Zoppi. "He was a night club entertainer long before he got lucky in television."

Being a television star doesn't automatically mean one will be a Las Vegas hit. Not everyone will pay $15 or $20 just to see a star in the flesh.

Carroll O'Connor, the tube's acknowledged king as Archie Bunker of "All in the Family," brought a nightclub act to Las Vegas about two years ago. He couldn't fill the Riviera's showroom.

Telly Savalas, hard hitting police lieutenant in "Kojak," sang and soft-shoed around the Sahara Hotel stage earlier this month but played to only a partly filled showroom.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Con's wife waiting but considered fair game

DEAR ABBY: I am married, although my husband is in prison. I do not go out with other men, and I don't entertain any, either. I live a clean, simple, uncomplicated life and am only trying to hang in there until my man comes home.

My problem is that most men think that I am "fair game" because I have no husband home. There are several in my neighborhood who insist that I am "lonely," hungry for a man and desperately in need of the company of one. I am tired of trying to straighten these guys out.

Maybe if you print this, they will get the message. Just because a women is alone doesn't mean that she is available.

WAITING FOR MY MAN

DEAR WAITING: Hooray for you! And I hope your man on the inside reads this. It will make his day. God bless.

DEAR ABBY: In fairness to the many older people like myself who cannot eat a large meal at one sitting and who eat many times a day (which the doctors assure us is healthier, anyway), I would like to present the side of the majority on "doggie baggers."

We enjoy restaurant eating every now and then, but my husband resents paying today's prices only to see half of my meal returned to the kitchen unneaten and then hearing me say "I'm hungry" two hours later. Since asking for a doggie bag is frowned upon in some restaurants, a simple solution for me is to carry my own plastic bags.

Yes, I do this in some friends' homes too. If you ask for a very small portion, the hostess thinks you ate before you came. And if you leave half of it on your plate, she thinks you didn't like it. But if you're truthful, the hostess is delighted to let you take your portion home to enjoy for several meals.

WOOF WOOF IN PA.

DEAR WOOF WOOF: I'm with you all the way. Many restaurants offer "a child's" portion at a reduced price, of which many senior citizens also take advantage.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40-years-old, and I have a problem. I always cry at sad movies, hymns, sad stories, parades, beautiful skaters and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Soon my son will be getting married. The plans for the church ceremony sound beautiful and end with my son's presenting me with a single red rose! The thought of it sends chills up my spine.

I don't want to embarrass my son or husband by blabbering.

Do you have any suggestions? (I'm on hormones, so it's not the menopause.) Thank you.

SENTIMENTAL IN ILLINOIS

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Being told in advance will prepare you for the presentation. I'm sure there won't be a dryeye in the house, so if you shed a tear or two, and you won't embarrass anyone. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My dad and I are at a disagreement. He says I should not eat with my left hand. He says it is like eating peas with a knife.

I like eating with my left hand, and I THINK I am old enough to know which hand I feel more comfortable eating with. (I am 16.)

Dad, says the etiquette books say that you are supposed to eat with your right hand.

Who is right? Please hurry your answer. I hate eating with my right hand.

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: I hope your dad is big enough to admit that he is wrong because he is.

European security meet nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are more than a trifle defensive when they discuss the declaration that President Ford and leaders of 34 other governments will sign next week in Helsinki.

After two decades of prodding, the Soviet Union will finally gain acceptance of the postwar map of eastern Europe. In return, the West mostly gets some high-sounding but tenuous "human rights" principles.

The document, which is not legally binding, allows for peaceful changes in borders. But this provides scant hope that Moscow's hold on eastern Europe will be relaxed and change will have to come from within the Warsaw bloc, the way Romania has achieved a measure of independence in its foreign policy.

As for the human rights concessions, such as reunification of divided families and freer movement of "ideas," journalists and security, they also are not legally enforceable and depend on Soviet good will. To the very end of two years of weary negotiations and drafting of the declaration, the Soviets fought for and obtained qualifications and conditions in every liberal provision.

The idea of an European collective security treaty was first proposed by Moscow in 1954. The West has tried to tie it to parallel negotiations to reduce Russian ground forces in Europe. These talks remain stalled in Vienna, but Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev will have his declaration and 35-nation summit to crow about at the 25th Communist party congress next February.

The Americans were never very excited about the conference. Privately, the highest officials were sometimes amused by the relentless debate among some 600 delegates over the placement of a comma, the translation of a phrase. Mostly, the United States went along with the tide.

In the U.S. view, the result is a political document that can serve as a "takeoff" for traditional treaties that would make the human-rights provisions binding. More important, it serves detente, the policy that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has pursued through the Nixon and Ford administrations. Another bond has been struck between East and West, giving promise of more understandings, such as a projected treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

On a practical level, President Ford will seize the opportunity of the summit setting to talk to Brezhnev about verification and other outstanding issues that are blocking completion of the weapons pact. Unless they are resolved, Brezhnev's planned visit to Washington this fall will be delayed — or held without a treaty signing.

Moreover, in the Helsinki declaration the Soviets make the gesture of agreeing to give 21-day advance notice of maneuvers involving 25,000 soldiers or more within 175 miles of their western borders. This applies also to Soviet troops in East Germany or elsewhere.

Whether the document would restrain the Soviets from applying the Brezhnev doctrine, the self-proclaimed right to intervene in a Warsaw bloc state, or from meddling in Portugal, is highly problematic.

North Viets ship U.S. arms to Hanoi, Far East guerillas

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has started shipping home some of the billions of dollars worth of U.S. weapons it captured from defeated South Vietnamese forces, Pentagon sources report.

The sources said 25 U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers were seen recently in Haiphong harbor aboard a landing ship tank originally supplied by the United States to the South Vietnamese navy.

The North Vietnamese captured about 1,000 howitzers when the South Vietnamese army collapsed last spring, according to Pentagon estimates.

Over-all, the Pentagon has calculated that the North Vietnamese got about $2 billion worth of serviceable American-made planes, tanks, artillery pieces, ammunition and other equipment when South Vietnam fell.

Another $3 billion or so in arms that came under North Vietnamese control was believed to be in unusable condition because of damage or lack of spare parts and maintenance.

In the case of the howitzers, U.S. intelligence specialists say the North Vietnamese should be able to obtain ammunition and spare parts from the Communist Chinese, who make artillery very similar to the U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources say the North Vietnamese are forming four new air force regiments in South Vietnam and equipping them with about 180 captured U.S. F5 jet fighters and A37 light bombers, as well as Russian-made MIG21s.

There has been one instance since the fall of South Vietnam in which it was reported that the North Vietnamese used A37 bombers in battles with the Communist Cambodians over several small disputed islands in the Gulf of Thailand.

Pentagon officials said last month they believe the A37s may have been flown by U.S.-trained pilots who served in the South Vietnamese air force until North Vietnam won.

Intelligence men have been watching for evidence that the North Vietnamese may be sending some of the huge stock of captured small arms to insurgents in other Southeast Asian countries.

So far, there has been one report that a quantity of U.S. M16 rifles were provided by the North Vietnamese to Moslem rebels fighting government troops in the Philippines.

On the other hand, intelligence continues to receive word of holdout resistance by South Vietnamese soldiers who apparently have some American arms and ammunition.

The most recent reports tell of remnants of the South Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division in Chau Doc province where they are said to be cooperating with members of a militant religious sect against the Communists. Previous reports have mentioned former South Vietnamese paratroopers and soldiers who once belonged to the 18th Infantry Division staging hit-and-run attacks.

Vets now able to exchange cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vietnam War veterans who have already drawn cash bonuses from Ohio can draw educational assistance funds instead if they refund any bonuses already paid.

Randall W. Sweeney, director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission, said the policy permitting the exchange was adopted because some veterans indicated they didn't know they had a choice.

He said the commission has received more than 1,450 requests for changes, most of them from cash to educational assistance.

The deadline for requesting a change is Oct. 21, Sweeney said.

Bank held up at Rio Grande

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP) — Two men wearing sun glasses held up the Rio Grande branch of the Ohio Valley Bank Friday, getting away with an undisclosed amount of cash.

The State Highway Patrol said they found a pickup truck believed used in the robbery abandoned along a Gallia County road a short time later. Boris Haskin, a vice president of the bank, said nobody was injured.

Farmers get bigger food dollar slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers took a slightly larger bite out of the consumer food dollar in June, largely because of higher livestock prices, according to figures by the Agriculture Department.

Using a 65-item list of market basket foods, officials said Thursday that farmers received an equivalent of 42.8 cents from each $1 that consumers spent last month, up from 41.8 cents in May and 40.1 cents in June 1974.

"Most of the increase resulted from a sharp jump in prices for beef cattle, hogs, broilers, and fresh vegetables," the department said in a report. "In contrast, decreases were sharp for eggs, farm ingredients in bakery and cereal products, oilseed products and sugar."

Retail beef prices rose to a record

average of nearly $1.58 a pound in June, measured on an all-cut basis, up 10 cents from May. The previous high was $1.50 a pound in February 1974.

Pork in retail stores rose to a near-record of almost $1.31 a pound, compared with $1.23 in May. The record was almost $1.32 a pound in August 1973.

Although the farm prices of cattle and hogs have declined some from their peaks in June, preliminary surveys by the department show that retail prices continued their upward momentum into early July, including an average of more than $1.63 a pound for beef and a record of almost $1.41 a pound for pork by July 5.

Middleman charges for transporting, processing and selling farm-produced food increased five-tenths of 1 per cent in June and averaged 3.1 per cent more than in the same month last year.

The report said that a one-pound loaf of white bread rose to 35.6 cents last month, down from 36.2 cents in May. The farm value of wheat in a loaf was 3.6 cents, down from 4.1 cents in May.

Eggs in retail stores dropped to 66.9 cents a dozen from 70.6 in May, with the farm value declining to 40.9 cents from 45.2 a month earlier.

Wheat used to expand beef feeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some beef producers apparently are planning to take advantage of the big wheat crop now being harvested in the southern Great Plains to expand their feeding operations, at least until more is known about 1975 corn production.

But Agriculture Department livestock experts said Monday that wheat feeding "probably is a minor factor" in the overall increase in feedlot operations in the past month. In a few areas, where 1975 wheat may be less costly than corn, it is having an effect.

In Kansas, for example, a USDA survey shows that 245,000 new cattle were placed in feedlots in May, up 78 per cent from the same month last year.

The main reason for the upturn in feed lot placements — up 20 per cent over-all in seven major beef states from a year earlier — has been the higher market prices for slaughter-grade cattle. Steers in Omaha, for example, were bringing close to $52 per 100 pounds in early June, compared with around $33 a few months ago.

Despite the price increase, feed lot placements have not resumed their high levels of early 1973 before the markets broke and cattle producers were plunged into almost two years of losses. The May feedlot placements, while up 20 per cent from a year earlier, were still about 20 per cent below May 1973.

Meanwhile, at least in some areas, new-crop wheat may have a price advantage over corn or sorghums for cattle feeders until the grain markets shake out and more is known about the 1975 corn crop, according to USDA economists.

The winter wheat crop being harvested could provide livestock feeders with some benefits if wheat prices are less in relation to corn.

Department experts say that if the total wheat harvest yields a record 2.1 billion bushels, it could trigger a surge in wheat feeding to livestock this summer while the corn crop is still waiting to mature. In all, USDA says, wheat fed to livestock during the year to begin July 1 could total 185 million to 200 million bushels, perhaps double the 1974-75 level.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has scheduled a hearing for June 26 to consider new definitions affecting milk sold in 37 federal milk-marketing order areas for use in flavored beverages.

Officials said Monday that the hearing was requested by the National Milk Producers Federation and involves a current rule allowing milk used in flavored beverages to be graded as Class II if the product contains more than 20 per cent total solids, including sweeteners and fat.

Under present rules, if a product has less than 20 per cent total solids, milk used in it is in the Class I category, meaning that handlers and processors must pay higher prices to farmers than they do for Class II milk.

A federation official said that some processors have edged over the 20 per cent line by using heavier corn syrup as a sweetener and thus have qualified their products for the Class II milk category.

Thus, the federation wants to eliminate the 20 per cent guideline and instead define milk used in such beverages on how those are consumed. Milk in preparations sold for direct consumption without further processing would be Class I and those which require further processing — in ice cream, for example — would be Class II.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sheep afflicted or exposed to a disease of the central nervous system called "scrapie" would be destroyed rather than allowed to be slaughtered for meat under a rule proposed by the Agriculture Department.

Officials said the proposal, open for public comment until July 21, is a "precautionary measure" resulting from recent research which showed that scrapie can be transmitted by laboratory inoculation to monkeys previously believed resistant to the disease.

Broomcorn statistics swept out the door

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 60 years of keeping broomcorn statistics, the Agriculture Department has decided to sweep them out the door.

"Broomcorn acreage has declined sharply during recent years and has reached a point of minor importance at the national level with production limited to three states," the department said Monday.

Thus, USDA said, broomcorn statistics no longer will be reported. Officials said broomcorn is produced only in Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

But back in 1915 when USDA started broomcorn figures, it was a fair-sized crop. It was not as big as ordinary corn or wheat, but out in the Southwest and even in parts of the Corn Belt, broomcorn was important for many farmers.

It was also essential for housewives who didn't have the fancy new electric sweepers. And brooms were also handy for shoeing stray cats and stubborn salesmen.

They still make brooms from broomcorn, says H. James Tippet of the department's Statistical Reporting Service. But imports from Mexico and brooms made from synthetics have taken a big share of the market.

In 1915, according to Tippet's records, farmers harvested 307,000 acres of broomcorn — some 68,900 tons which brought them $93 a ton.

By 1923 the broomcorn acreage was at its peak at 536,000 acres and was bringing growers $160 a ton. Another big year was 1935, when farmers had more than 500,000 acres, but the price was less than $74 a ton.

Then in World War II prices rose again, and in 1944 broomcorn was harvested from 382,000 acres — the most since 1935 — and brought $215 a ton. Prices stayed relatively high and soared to $436 a ton in 1951, during the Korean War, when about 260,000 acres were harvested.

But by 1970 the acreage was dwindling fast. That year farmers harvested 87,000 acres of broomcorn for an average of $424 per ton. And in 1974, according to USDA, only 7,300 acres were harvested in Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Ironically, prices soared to a record of $801 per ton.

Favorable growing season helping many farm products

WASHINGTON (AP) — A generally favorable growing season is having an effect on some other agricultural products as well as the mainstay crops of corn and wheat.

The 1975 apple crop, for example, is expected to be a record of 7.3 billion pounds, up 13 per cent from last year and 9 per cent more than the previous high of 6.7 billion pounds in 1969, says the Agriculture Department.

Apple production in the eastern states is expected to total 3.2 billion pounds, up 16 per cent from last year. Production of apples expected to be 1.3 billion in the central states, up 17 per cent, and 2.8 billion in the West, up 8 per cent.

The department said in its July 1 crop forecast issued this week that peach output also is larger, estimated at more than 2.9 billion pounds, an increase of 1 per cent from June 1 prospects and 3 per cent above 1974.

Pear production was put at 750,750 tons, up 2 per cent from last year.

Dairy farmers caught in cost-price pinch

Dairy farmers are caught in a cost-price squeeze, according to Jim Polson, area extension agent in Farm Management for the Washington C.H. extension Area.

Dairymen are receiving approximately $8 per hundredweight for their milk; however, it is costing many of them over $10 per hundredweight to produce it. This was one of the results of a recent study of the 1974 records of 160 progressive Ohio dairy farmers. The $10 cost included family labor at $2.66 an hour, and a 7.5 per cent return on the farmer's investment.

Dairymen and others attending Dairy Day July 30 at the Chester and Ralph Schweitzer farm near Fincastle, Ohio will learn some of the latest methods of producing milk at the lowest possible cost.

There is a lot of difference between farms and farmers. The top 10 per cent of the dairymen in the study were producing milk for $8.25 per cwt., while the least efficient had costs running $11 per cwt. and more. The low-cost operator's herds averaged over 14,000 pounds of milk per cow, while their feed cost per pound of milk produced was the lowest.

Feed accounts for approximately 60 per cent of the cost of producing milk. Low cost balanced rations and economical feed production are two of the keys to making money in dairying. Other important areas include: milking procedures, nursery care, raising replacements, records, and manure disposal. Extension Dairy Specialists and Agronomists will be discussing and answering questions about these and related topics at Dairy Day.

Dairy Day will begin at 9:30 a.m. July 30 with tours of the Schweitzer diary facilities. Tour stops will be manned by Extension dairy specialists, while the afternoon program will include wagon tours of cropping demonstrations. Extension agronomists will man the tour stops and discuss no-tillage corn and hay production. Anyone with an interest in learning more about profitable dairying is invited to attend.

The farm is located just off U.S. 62, one-half mile north of Fincastle. For more information, contact your local County Extension Office.

Love chocolate? here's how to really care for it

NOTE - This is the fourth in a series of the Story of Chocolate.

Chocolate: it's a year-round taste treat, a really pleasurable food.

Like any fine food, chocolate should be properly stored to reap all its full, rich flavor, especially during the warm summer months. Not that chocolate spoils; it doesn't. But it does become discolored when it is exposed to too much heat, or too much moisture.

This discoloration is called "bloom." To understand bloom, one must understand the delicate, even exquisite, nature of chocolate.

A one-ounce bar of chocolate is really about 200 billion — that's right, 200 billion — individual cocoa and sugar particles. Each of these particles is coated, actually suspended, in cocoa butter — the pure oil from the cocoa bean. There are so many cocoa and sugar particles that the cocoa butter covers a surface area more than 100 square feet. Remember, this is only a one-ounce bar.

Cocoa butter is an amazing substance. One of the stables fats known to man, it lasts years at room temperature. It also melts at about 92 degrees Fahrenheit — and that's the real bonus. It allows real chocolate to melt in the mouth, the Chocolate Manufacturers Association tells us. When a piece of chocolate is popped in the mouth, the cocoa butter melts quickly, unlocking the flavor of each particle of cocoa and sugar. You might say it's a taste explosion.

Yet this very property also causes the chocolate to "bloom." When chocolate is exposed to high temperatures, the cocoa butter will melt and rise to the surface. When the chocolate hardens, a gray film remains. That's why chocolate should never be left in a hot place; for instance, on a radiator, table or window sill in sunlight, or a car parked in full sun.

Chocolate will also bloom when it is exposed to moisture. Water on chocolate will dissolve the sugar particles out of their cocoa-butter coating. When the water evaporates, the sugar — a gray film — remains on the candy.

Chocolate that has developed bloom is perfectly safe to eat. However, it may not be as creamy as when it was bought fresh. This chocolate could best be used for cooking and baking.

To get the full flavor benefit from chocolate, follow these few simple rules suggested by the Chocolate Manufacturers Association:

On a hot summer day, keep in a cool place. Over 80 degrees, milk chocolate will begin to soften; over 85 degrees, it will begin to melt.

Ideal conditions for storing chocolate are 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit and 50 per cent humidity.

Keep chocolate away from moisture. Refrigerating or freezing chocolate is really unnecessary — often unattractive. When chocolate warms or is defrosted, moisture usually will form on the surface, causing bloom.

The keeping power of chocolate is well documented. One leading chocolate manufacturer reports that last year it received a letter from a woman saying that when her kitchen was being renovated, she found a bag of chocolate baking pieces in an air-tight container on the top pantry shelf. She made cookies with the pieces. Curious, she sent the wrapper to the company to find out when the chocolate was made. The company checked its files. With that type of wrapper, the chocolate pieces had to have been made between 1940 and 1944! While no one would suggest that someone should wait 30 years to eat the chocolate purchased last week, it does show that chocolate is virtually spoil-proof.

The Chocolate Manufacturers Association is comprised of 15 member companies devoted principally to the manufacture and distribution of fine chocolate and cocoa products.

Bloomington Headstart goes to Fair

The Bloomington Headstart Program, Community Action Commission, was the last group to attend the Fayette County Fair Friday morning, where they were 'treated' to rides and free cold drinks, as the other groups were throughout the week. Present with the students were their teacher, Miss Kathy Wallace and assistant Mrs. Margaret Thomas, along with aides Ruby Coy, Mary Runnels and Cheryl Robinson, and Mrs. J. E. Tremlett, social worker, and her assistant Mrs. Juliana Harris.

Also the following volunteers and parents, Mrs. J. W. Wallace, Mrs. Carol Hixson, Mrs. Grace McFadden, Mrs. Mildred White, Mrs. James Harris, Mrs. William Mahoney, Mrs. Charlotte P. Haines and Mrs. Louise Cruse. Other helpers were Diane and Jack Alltop, Mrs. Judy Heinze, Lisa and Sandy Walker, Lisa Mahorney, Mrs. Virginia Wilson, Alanna Thomas and John Shiltz.

Society names concert soloists

Soloists for the 4 p.m. Aug. 10 concert of the Fayette County Choral Society to be held at First Presbyterian Church, will be Mrs. Wayne King, soprano, Gary Browning, baritone and Allen Dunlap, tenor. In the final number the chorus will be assisted by Bill Metais on the trumpet, and Nelly Maude Case, at the organ. Miss Case, organist and choir master at Christ Episcopal Church in Waltham, Mass., will open the concert with a group of organ selections.

At the next rehearsal on Monday at 8 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, an election of officers will take place.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Glen I. McCoy of 816 Millwood Ave., have returned home from Chicago, Ill., where they attended the National Professional Photographers of America Conventions for five days.

Cooking chicken outdoors on the grill is always a pleasant way to serve a summertime meal. This year, it's also an important way to conserve energy. Not only do you save the energy required to cook the chicken, you also avoid heating the stove which in turn raises the temperature of the kitchen and necessitates more energy to cool the house.

Chicken is a great favorite as a main course for special occasion dinners. In a nationwide consumer survey conducted by the National Broiler Council to determine attitudes regarding preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken, more than 75 per cent of those responding said they frequently served chicken for important meals.

Couple honored at get-together

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McCoy and Don McCoy of Sabina, entertained recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Lynch and Asha of Boston, Mass., who are here visiting. The Lynch family will be moving to Pakistan soon.

Guests present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Lynch and Ryan of Washington C. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hurst and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moxey, all of Cleveland.

Golden anniversary is observed

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kelley, 125 River Road, held open house at their home in observance of their golden wedding anniversary. The Kelleys received their guests from 2 until 5 p.m. in the basement family room, which was beautifully decorated with various flower arrangements, many of which were gifts. Mrs. Donald Denen was in charge of the gift table and Mrs. Terry Taylor presided at the guest book.

The reception table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a lovely bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath with the leaves sprayed gold. This was flanked on either side with triple silver candle holders with lighted antique gold tapers. A two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with gold roses and white love birds perched on wedding rings, was topped with a white filigree base ornament featuring a hanging gold bell in an arch of gold and white flowers. Amid the flowers was a golden "50".

Guests were served individual cakes topped with a gold "50", twin wedding bell ice cream molds, decorated with yellow roses and green leaves, nuts, wintergreen flavored mints, coffee and punch. Mrs. McKinley Kirk presided at the silver coffee service, Mrs. S.G. Haukedahl served punch, and Mrs. Kenneth Kelly served the cake and ice cream.

Hostesses for the occasion was the Kelley's daughter, Kathleen, assisted by Mrs. Danny Kirkpatrick. Others assisting throughout the afternoon were Mrs. Richard Stinson, Mrs. James Tope, Miss Teri Lynn Miller, Mrs. Orville Blanton, Mrs. Edwin Scharenberg, and Mrs. Leonard Miller.

Guests were from Columbus, London, South Solon, South Charleston, Ironton, Lima, Hillsboro, New Holland, Mount Sterling, Jeffersonville, Bloomington and Washington Court House. The two special highlights of the afternoon were a telephone call from Austin, Texas and the personal congratulations of Mr. Bob McEwen, State Representative of the Seventy-Seventh District.

Buy the best produce for canning and freezing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Select only the best fresh fruits and vegetables for home canning and freezing. When you're investing your time and effort, invest a little more and start with top quality produce. It will pay off in better texture, color and flavor when the food is thawed or opened.

Jane Uetz, home economist with the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, points out that as supplies of summer fruits and vegetables peak between now and September, more and more consumers will be tempted to turn to home canning and freezing to take advantage of present plentiful supplies of top quality produce in the market.

Preserving foods at home is an intelligent way to make the family food dollars go further in the months ahead but, Miss Uetz says, there are certain tips and precautions that first-timers should heed.

Fresh fruits and vegetables for freezing or canning should be at peak of ripeness and processed as soon as possible after they are harvested. Choose fresh, firm fruits and young, tender vegetables. Use only produce free of bruises or any signs of wilting. Sort for size and ripeness to insure even cooking.

Wash all fruits and vegetables thoroughly under running water. Avoid soaking, as this may cause loss of flavor and food value.

While the chances are slim, there is danger that foods improperly canned at home may become infected with spoilage organisms which, if eaten, could cause death or serious illness. However, the possibility can be removed by following a few easy steps.

There are three methods used to preserve fresh fruits and vegetables. The first, boiling-water-bath, is used for fruits, tomatoes and pickled vegetables. Another, used for all vegetables except tomatoes, is the steam-pressure canner. Also, the open kettle method may be used for preserves, jams, jellies and butters.

Regardless of the method used, it is vitally important to follow directions provided by the manufacturers of home canning equipment, jars and sealers.

If you have specific question, don't guess at the answers — call your local Cooperative Extension Service listed in the telephone directory under county government offices.

To prevent contamination, fresh produce must be processed at the temperature and for the time described in a container with an air-tight seal.

When foods are canned correctly, they can be stored for as long as a year in a cool, dry, dark place.

There are precautions to take, too, before serving home-canned fruits or vegetables. Any container that has a bulging end or lid, a leak, is spurting liquid, or has an off odor when opened should be destroyed. Since children and pets have a way of getting into things, be sure to dispose of these foods where they cannot find them.

To serve home-canned vegetables, bring them to a rolling boil and then cover and boil for ten minutes. Spinach and corn should be boiled an additional ten minutes.

Vegetables to be frozen should be washed and then blanched — heated in boiling water for the time specified for the vegetable and the size of the pieces — and then cooled immediately.

The most satisfactory way to pack produce for the freezer is to use the size container that will hold enough of the fruit or vegetable for one meal. Frozen fruits and vegetables maintain high quality for 8 to 12 months when sorted at 0 degrees F. or below.

Many fresh items such as peaches, apricots, pears, plums, tomatoes, beets, carrots and corn are ideal for freezing or canning. For the best dollar and food value, follow the seasons in your fresh produce department.

MT field trip notes

EDITOR'S NOTE: They're back! — the 24 Miami Trace High School students who went on the MT summer field trip under the supervision of Miami Trace earth science teacher Harold Gass and Miami Trace guidance counselor Fred Doyle and below is the last of the Cheryl Blue's diary installments. The duration of the trip was 22 days and Cheryl acted as reporter.

July 16, 1975
After pulling ourselves out of our warm sleeping bags and eating breakfast, we were on our way. Before we left the Great Sand Dunes National Monument we got to go out in the sand. To get to the sand dunes we had to cross a small stream and the water was really icy. Afterwards most of us put our shoes back on because the sand was also cold in the early morning.

The campers who were full of energy climbed to the top of the high sand dune, while the others who were still sleepy climbed to the top of the small sand dunes to sit and talk. We stayed in this area for about an hour and a half just exploring the tan colored sand with the mountains in the background.

We then headed out and didn't stop until we got to a roadside park in Bent County, Colorado. Here we ate lunch. Our next stop was in Larned, Kansas, where we went to a Dairy Queen. Everyone enjoyed this since we were all tired and hungry after such a long drive.

Our last stop for the day was at a campground at the Marion Dam near Marion, Kansas.

July 17, 1975
We ate breakfast, packed the vans and trailers and were on our way. We stopped along the road near Elmdale, Kansas to pick up Sea Urchin Spines and Crinoid Stems. Some people in our group even found shark teeth.

We went through the Tallgrass Prairie region in Kansas and after this we got on the Kansas Turnpike. Here we had a flat tire on Mr. Gass' van. Of course, we had a spare and the new tire was on the van soon.

The countryside in Kansas is about the same as Ohio. Everyone was glad to see corn and beanfields again. We stopped at a roadside park for lunch.

We didn't stop again until we arrived at Graham Cave State Park in Missouri. We ate dinner here and set up camp. We had our own special campfire talk tonight. Ranger Dave Bradford talked to us about the state. Then Larry Sheldon, an archeologist, told us about Graham Cave where he had done alot of digging. He had many artifacts which he showed us: spears, arrowheads and toothed-arrowheads. He also showed us some hematite (iron ore) which the Indians used for red paint. Mr. Sheldon passed out pamphlets about Missouri after the talk. He also answered all of our questions. We got to sleep fast after the long day.

July 18, 1975
After eating breakfast we were on our way, but before leaving Graham Cave State Park, we stopped at the cave. Mr. Sheldon, the man who spoke to us the previous night, talked to us again and explained the ways archeologist dig in the cave.

Our next stop was at the Cahokia Mound State Park in Illinois. Our group went through a museum and then a guide took us on a tour of the Indian Mounds. The guide also took us to another part of the park where some college students reconstructed an Indian Village and the students were living in the grass huts they made this summer!

We stopped at McDonald's in Collinsville, Ill. and the lunch tasted good after the long drive. We then rode in the vans until it was time for our evening meal. Everyone was getting restless in the hot vans so we stopped at Pizza Hut in Indianapolis, Inc. and this was a first on the trip for us. It tasted delicious!

After supper everyone was excited to get home and so happy that almost no one went to sleep. When we finally crossed the border into Ohio everyone cheered! We stopped when we got into Xenia and called the Bowers' and they notified all our parents we would be arriving at Miami Trace High School soon.

It seemed like it took forever to get there! Everyone was happy to see their parents but we hated to leave our classmates and counselors. It seemed as if we were breaking up a family. I think everyone loved the trip but we were glad to be back in good ol' Fayette County!

Cincinnati boy slain by sniper

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A 15-year-old Cincinnati boy was shot to death in a sniper attack here while he and his vacationing parents had stopped at an ice cream stand for refreshments.

Washington County Coroner Farrell Jackson said Sean Armstrong was killed instantly by a single shot from a .300-magnum rifle, which rang out from a hillside across the street from the store.

Police have charged Michael D. Kampo, 26, of Bentleyville with murder in the shooting, which also injured the store's owner, Louis Haddad, 47.

Jackson said the same bullet that passed through Armstrong's lower neck struck Haddad in the hip. Haddad was in guarded condition at Washington Hospital.

According to Jackson, the Armstrongs had pulled off Interstate 70 in their mobile home to take a driving break. The youngster was leaning over the counter outside the store when he was shot.

While state police refused to give any details surrounding Kampo's arrest, Jackson said officers found a .300-caliber magnum rifle equipped with a telescopic sight under Kampo's bed in a house across the street from the shooting scene.

The bullet traveled about 300 yards, state police said.

Kampo was lodged in Washington County Jail.

THRILL OF VICTORY — Rep. Martin Russo, D-Ill., leaps for joy after scoring winning run in the Democrats' 3-2 victory over the Republicans in the annual congressional baseball game in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Congratulating Russo is Rep. Ron Mottl, D-Ohio, the winning pitcher, while Rep. Don Clausen, R-Calif., GOP first baseman, looks on. Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., GOP catcher, who was bowled over by Russo, sits this one out.

Prep official testing set

The first of three testing dates for men and women interested in becoming interscholastic sports officials with the Ohio High School Athletic Association will be held on August 25. Persons interested in officiating football, volleyball or soccer must take the test on this date.

No person is permitted to take the test unless a complete application is on file with the OHSAA by August 4. In order to obtain an application form, write to the OHSAA, 4080 Roselea Place, Box 14308, Columbus, Ohio 43214 or call 267-2502.

Applicants must be 18 years of age or older and must be a high school graduate or no longer enrolled in high school. With the rapidly growing program in girls interscholastic athletics, there is an urgent need for women to become officials in volleyball as well as basketball, swimming, track and softball.

Brewer, Nicklaus tied in Canadian

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Old pro Gay Brewer seemed amused, amazed and just a little bit sheepish about his own heroics.

"Uncanny," he said with an embarrassed grin. "You have to be dead lucky," he said. "That's what happens when you're playing good and you're scoring good. If I'd been three or four over par, it would have taken me three to get down."

But instead of taking three strokes to get down from a couple of sand traps, he holed the explosion shots for a pair of birdies that helped him tie Jack Nicklaus for the second round lead in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"I can't remember ever holing two bunker shots in a single round before—and certainly not two in three holes like I did today," said the gray-haired, 43-year-old Brewer who scored the last of his 11 official tour triumphs in this Canadian national championship in 1972.

Brewer's two 68s—the last one also included an eagle three—gave him a 136 total, four under par for two trips over the weather-plagued, 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course.

Nicklaus matched the total with a second-round 71 that was achieved when the wind was at its worst, 40 miles an hour or more and strong enough to knock down concession tents and power lines. He'd had a course-record 65 Thursday, a round that was interrupted for more than three hours by a violent thunderstorm.

"Considering the conditions," Nicklaus said, "the 71 was a better round than the 65."

Ken Still's three-under-par 67, the best round of the raw, windy, chilly day, lifted him to within one stroke of the lead at 137. Australian David Graham was next with a 71-138.

Tom Weiskopf, who matched Nicklaus' opening 65, blew to a wildly erratic 74 that included three birdies, five bogeys and a double bogey.

Weiskopf dropped back to 139 and was tied at that figure with Hubert Green and Mike McCullough, the only other men under par after two rounds. Green had a 71, McCullough a 72.

Gary Player of South African shot a 73 for 140, like Nicklaus when the weather was at its worst. Arnold Palmer had another 73 and a 141 total. Lee Trevino took a 72—143 and Johnny Miller 74—144.

Mike Marshall might have been thinking "sweep." Maybe Pete Rose was, too. But he was also thinking about what Marshall was about to throw.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who went into Cincinnati Friday trailing the Reds by a mammoth 12½ games in the National League East, looked like they might make a nice dent in that lead.

They'd beaten Cincinnati 4-3 in the first game of the twilight doubleheader, riding Marshall's two perfect innings of relief, and led the nightcap 3-2 in the seventh when Marshall again came out of the bullpen on a rescue mission.

Then Rose took over. He'd been Marshall's last victim in the first game, taking a called third strike.

This time, though, Marshall was the victim. Rose jumped on an inside screwball and rammed it for a three-run homer that catapulted the Reds to a 6-3 victory.

And the day ended the way it had begun, with the Reds still 12½ games ahead of the Dodgers.

In the rest of the league, Pittsburgh routed Montreal 6-1, New York beat Chicago 6-3, San Francisco bombed Houston 8-1 and, in two other twin-bills, San Diego swept Atlanta 7-3 and 8-1 while St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning 4-3 and losing 5-2.

"It was my turn to win this time," Rose said of Marshall. "He won the battle in the first game."

"You could see momentum developing for the Dodgers," he continued. "If they had beat us twice they would have been thinking 'sweep.' I learned a long time ago you can't take anything for granted in this game. I remember 1964 when Philadelphia had the big lead and blew it."

In the opener, the Dodgers trailed 3-2 going into the eighth. But Steve Garvey singled and John Hale doubled to tie it and Hale moved to third on Ron Cey's grounder.

After Leron Lee walked, Rawly Eastwick replaced Clay Carroll. Manny Mota, batting for Bill Russell, then bunted down the first base line and Hale raced home, just beating Dan Driessen's throw.

Auto, homeowner insurance to rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The rising cost of auto parts and the sharp jump in claims may force an increase in auto and homeowners insurance rates, an executive of a major insurance company says.

John E. Fisher, president of Nationwide Insurance, said auto claims have gone up 20 per cent and homeowner claims have jumped 22 per cent in the last year.

"More and more companies are offering auto and homeowners insurance at a loss," Fisher said, "because these coverages have become underpriced as a result of rising claims costs."

The average claim for a damaged car is $455 while the average homeowner claim is $498, he said.

Nationwide is the third largest auto insurer in Ohio and the sixth largest in the country. In homeowners insurance, it ranks third in Ohio and 11th in the nation.

"Unless there's dramatic improvement in the claims picture—and there are signs that it's only worsening—insurance rates will have to go up for these coverages."

The chief cause of bigger auto repair claims, Fisher said, is the rising cost of auto parts. He said the cost of parts most frequently damaged in traffic accidents has risen 41 per cent since 1971.

Fisher said the federal government's cost of living index showed that car insurance rates were about a half per cent lower at the end of the first three months of this year than they were four years ago.

"That is rather significant in view of rampant inflation," he said. During the same time, he said government figures showed that the general cost of living rose nearly 32 per cent.

Girl in 2-year coma dies; legal hassle unresolved

MIAMI (AP) — For two years, Ronda Seaman slept in a deep coma, unaware of the heated legal battle that surrounded the futile treatment of her injuries in a hospital which had sued her for trespassing.

Thursday, she died.

In June 1973, her parents, Irwin and Adele Seaman, moved Ronda with them from New York to Miami, despite the serious skull fracture she suffered in an auto crash on the Long Island Expressway.

Before the crash, the 19-year-old junior college coed was looking forward to entering the University of Miami. But she never regained consciousness after the accident.

Within a few months, the family's medical insurance was virtually exhausted. Within a year and a half, the family owed some $65,000 in bills to Doctors Hospital, where a series of specialists advising internal specialist Dr. John D. Liebler attempted to save her.

But eight months ago, Dr. Irwin Perlmuter, a neurosurgeon, said, "She hasn't got the function of her cerebral hemispheres and she's without hope of recovery."

The hospital, hoping to cut its losses, sued Ronda last November for trespassing. The suit was never resolved.

"Technically, it's still filled, but it's inactive," said hospital administrator Joseph McAloon after Ronda died from undetermined complications. "There were some payments on her bill from Blue Cross, about $15,000. But that still leaves a balance of about $110,000."

"I don't think her parents are in any position to pay. We'll have no alternative but to absorb the charges if they can't pay. Our job is to take care of her regardless of who pays the costs."

Ronda's family was unavailable for comment.

On the floor where Ronda suffered in silence, nursing supervisor Ursula List said, "It's terrible."

"The young nurses who attended her had become very attached to her. She was so young, and they all felt very close to her. It's very difficult for them."

Medical center receives grant

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — Holzer Medical Center has been awarded an $84,250 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., to develop and implement an employee incentive program.

Warren F. Sheets, chairman of the board of the Holzer Hospital Foundation, said the grant would be used over a two-year period along with funds from the local foundation.

Hugh P. Kinkel, executive vice president of Holzer Medical Center, said the goal of the project was to reduce costs while at the same time improve the quality of patient care.

Forgery suspect is bound over

A Washington C. H. man was bound over to the Fayette County grand jury Friday in Washington C. H. Municipal Court on a charge of check forgery.

James Downs, 32, of 525 Fourth St., was arrested Monday by Washington C. H. police officers and charged with check forgery.

After waiving preliminary hearing, Downs was bound over to the grand jury by acting Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson.

He is presently being held in the Fayette County Jail under $2,500 bond.

The Potential 'Wonder Drug'

Research information is pouring from laboratories all over the world about those remarkable substances in the body: prostaglandins.

If only a portion of the experimental work is correct and substantiated, prostaglandins will undoubtedly be the "wonder drugs" of this era, or any other era, of mankind.

It is said that prostaglandins can play an important role in the treatment of epilepsy, in the control of high blood pressure, in the healing of stomach ulcers and in the reversal of acute heart attacks.

The onset of labor, the prevention of miscarriages, the reduction of clot formation and even nutrition control are affected by these remarkable substances.

One exciting report seems to indicate that "PGs" may even reduce the hazards of heavy smoking and alcoholism.

More than a thousand scientists gathered in Florence, Italy, recently to learn about the numerous and recently discovered potential roles of PGs. They were overwhelmed by the massive amount of encouraging current study involving prostaglandins.

Soon, many of the purely experimental studies will be translated to human research and treatment.

A special ultrasonic instrument hooked up to a computer is now being used for the early detection of tumors of the prostate gland.

A group of doctors at the Batelle Institute in Frankfurt, Germany, believes that their device can distinguish between normal prostates and early or suspected tumors.

A large study has been set in motion in an effort to substantiate their initial findings. The early reports are encouraging.

The key to treatment of cancers of the prostate or tumors anywhere in the body is early recognition and intensive treatment.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Junta heads Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The creation of a powerful triumvirate of generals to govern Portugal was seen today as a victory for the Communist-backed premier, Gen. Vasco Goncalves.

The 30-man Revolutionary Council on Friday designated Goncalves and two other officers to "centralize" authority and create "a strong political direction."

The leftist military is wrestling with its worst political crisis since the officers ousted the old fascist regime 15 months ago.

An official announcement said the Armed Forces Movement decided to "concentrate political and military power" in President Francisco da Costa Gomes, Goncalves, and the commander of the internal security forces, Gen. Otelio Saraiva de Carvalho — a nationalistic leftist.

There were reports that several council members opposed to Goncalves, including Foreign Minister Maj. Ernesto Melo Antunes, had resigned.

The three were given virtually unlimited powers, over the opposition of moderates to such a concentration of authority.

Expect higher grain stockpile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if the Soviet Union buys moderately more wheat and corn than now known to be on order, figures by the Agriculture Department show that U.S. grain stockpiles a year from now will be up from current low levels.

The catch is that farmers will have to harvest the record wheat and corn crops that the department currently is projecting.

A new "supply and demand" report issued Friday showed few changes from earlier estimates of U.S. grain production and total supplies. The report compared the 1974-75 season just ended for wheat on June 30 and the corn year to end Sept. 30, against what the situation looks like in the year ahead.

Good nutrition and plenty of rest form the first line of defense in the battle of the bugs, flu and colds. To add nutrition to your meals try sausage. It's an excellent source of protein, B vitamins and minerals such as iron, copper and phosphorus.

Opening lead — Ace of diamonds.

Occasionally, at the bridge table, players are overcome by an urge to bid at every opportunity. While in any particular case, this may work well, in the long run it can be expensive.

The above hand was played Tuesday night, and Mrs. J.C. Wright held the north hand. After the club opening bid, a number of actions could be justified with the North's holding.

Although a point short of a standard no-trump overcall, a case can be made for that bid. Some players might double, but with only a doubleton spade, this is not recommended. Still others might overcall a diamond — a good lead — directing call, but also not recommended for frequent use.

Mrs. Charles Fabb kept her string of victories intact by capturing her fourth straight victory in July Tuesday night. Playing with Mrs. Larry Coil, she topped all east-west pairs with a score of 103. They were followed by Dr. and Mrs. K.K. Burriss, who scored 89.

Placing first among the north-south players were Mrs. J.C. Wright and George Malek with 112. Bruce Strickling and Mrs. Craig Vandemark finished second with 97. There were seven full tables and par was 84.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Owens-Illinois Inc. has unveiled a tubular solar energy collector, described as two to five times more efficient than present flat plate solar collectors.

Dr. George R. Mather Jr., senior scientist on the project, said the collector can operate efficiently over a wide range of temperatures and can power heating and cooling devices which now use fossil fuels.

A beautiful weekend is in store for Ohioans with sunny and cooler weather bringing relief from summer heat.

It was clear and cool Friday night with early morning temperatures dipping well into the 50s over most of the state. At dawn, readings ranged from around the 60 degree mark along the Ohio River in southern Ohio to 52 at Youngstown in the northeast.

It will be cool again tonight with lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

A cool high pressure system over the southern Great Lakes will drift east and reach the mid Atlantic coast by Sunday. A cold front from southern Canada through North Dakota and Montana is moving east across the Great Lakes. This front could bring a few showers to northern Ohio on Sunday.

Sen. Valiquette questions rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, questioned Friday Board of Regents residency rules which she said appear to discriminate among members of the same family.

"As I understand the policy established by the Board of Regents," she said in a letter to Chancellor James A. Norton, "a person who moves into and is employed in Ohio is immediately eligible for reduced instate tuition fees."

"However, the spouse and dependent children of that person must reside in Ohio for one year before residency for instate tuition fees can be established," she wrote.

Clarksburg Field Day scheduled for July 31

CLARKSBURG — The 60th annual Clarksburg Field Day, sponsored by the Clarksburg United Methodist Church, will be held July 31 at the Clarksburg Field Day grounds, one-fourth mile east of the village on Ohio 138.

The event will be held a week earlier this year because of conflict with the Ross County Fair. With the exception of one year, the field day has been held on the first Thursday in August.

Many attractions have been scheduled for all-day and evening. These include concerts by the widely-known Adelphi Band and the Adena High School Band, amateur talent show with cash prizes, minutemen presenting the bicentennial program, magician Randy Miller of Washington C. H., a barber shop quartet from Chillicothe, Royalaires, gospel singers from Columbus, the Circulating Squares, western style square dance exhibition, and skydivers from the Rickenbacker Air Force Base.

There will also be trap shooting, horseshoe pitching, a tractor pull, pony rides, children's games climaxing with the greased pole.

The Royalaires will highlight the evening program from 8 until 9 p.m. The magician will appear at 6:30 p.m. and the barber shop quartet at 7 p.m. Minutemen will be on the afternoon program and will show slides following the gospel singers. Western style square dance exhibition will conclude the program.

The skydivers will make three jumps during the afternoon with time announced from the stage.

Fish and chicken dinners will be served beginning at 4:30 p.m. and sandwiches and other refreshments served during the day and evening.

Mongold outlasts Armbrust in demolition derby event

The race track at the Fayette County Fairgrounds served as the scene for the first of two nights of auto demolition derbies Friday.

A cash prize of $50 and a trophy were awarded to the winner of each of three preliminary heats and a grand prize of $250 plus trophy went to the winner of the final comprised of the first, second and third place finishers in the heats.

The demolition derby was marked by the appearance of Congressman William H. Harsha and State Representative Bob McEwen. The two legislators were introduced to the crowd by announcer Phil Tatman.

Dan Armbrust of Washington C.H. outlasted Donald Mongold of Washington C.H. to take the first heat. Doug Sears of South Solon took third. In the second heat, Mike Walters, of New Holland, James Matthews of Washington C.H., and Gary Collins, also of Washington C.H. finished one, two three.

In the final preliminary heat of the evening, Junior Ison of Milledgeville outpowered Terri Sword of Jeffersonville to win the heat. Terri Sword and Dave Evans of Clarksburg finished second and third, respectively.

In the nine-car finale, an unpopular decision was handed down by the judges. With Armbrust and Mongold still running, Armbrust nudged Mongold repeatedly until his car stalled, appearing to have made the final contact. However, the judge's decision not to count the nudges and award the derby to Mongold met with a chorus of boos from the near-capacity crowd. Armbrust expressed his disgust by hurling his crash helmet into the infield from the track.

Nevertheless, Mongold walked away with the $250 prize while Armbrust had to settle for second place. Walters took third after a flattened tire caused him to lose maneuverability of his car.
